ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The present thesis on “Remittance Flow and Impact on the Nepalese Markets .” is an outcome of direct & indirect cooperation from various personalities. With this regard firstly, I would like to extend my hearty thanks to kailali multiple campus Dhangadhi, Tribhuvan university who provided an opportunity to gain in depth theoretical and practical knowledge of the research, which tremendously helps to gain the understanding the practical aspect of the subject.

I am deeply indebted to my supervisor Reader Padmakant Joshi, who not only suggested the topic, but also supervised throughout the completion of the research by his stimulating suggestions and encouragement that was required for the effective survey & for the overall completion of the work. I sincerely appreciate his cordial support, guidance and patience.

I would also like to extend my heartiest gratitude to Campus Chief Surendra Bahadur Chand for helping me in collecting necessary information regarding the respective topic and other relevant information. I am also thankful to all the respondents who extended their time and patience for providing necessary information through discussion and meetings, without their cordial support the completion of this thesis would not have been possible. The administrative staff of Ministry of Labor and Nepal Rastra Bank and other supportive personalities who provided with all the possible and needed information, are also heartily thanked.

Finally, I would like to give my special thanks to my family members, friends and all the teachers who have supported throughout the completion of MBS Study.
