ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

At the outset, I would like to express heartily gratitude and thanks to my supervisor Mr. Naveen Adhikari, Lecturer for his valuable guidance, constructive comments, suggestions and encouragement for the completion of thesis successfully. Without his encouragement and co-operation, this research work would not be accomplished.

It will not be out of place to acknowledge the assistance and guidance rendered by Prof. Dr. Ram Prasad Gyawaly, Head of CEDCON, T.U. I would like to express my heartily thanks to the respected teachers and staffs of Economics Departments for their co-operation, help and suggestions.

I am very much obliged to my colleagues Hira Kunwar, Kedar Rai, Geeta Rai, Shashi Koirala, sister Ambika Pathak, brother Gopal Bhandari for their assistance, valuable suggestions and substantial time extended to me. My thanks goes to Shaktijhoda Drinking water supply project's user group for their co-operation and sharing their experience and knowledge with me during my field study. They not only provided me with valuable suggestions but they also kindly given me an opportunity to discuss with them for hours in spite of their busy schedule.

I am deeply also indebted to my family members particularly my parents Netra Prasad Rijal and Damanta Rijal, my sisters Indira Rijal, Bhima Rijal and brothers Yogendra Rijal and Raghu Rijal for their love, understanding, moral support and above all their concern to my academic achievement.

Heartily thanks goes to Mr. Ramesh Maharjan of Dynamic Computer and Photocopy Centre, Kirtipur for his excellent computer typing and setting with great, zeal and commitment.
