ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The thesis reflects the efforts of many people over a number of days. First I would like to express my profound gratitude to my supervisor Mr Sanjaya Singh, Lecture, Central Department of Economics, T.U. Kathmandu for his guidance, constant encouragement and constructive advice to accomplish this form, without which the thesis would have been impossible. I am equally grateful to the Head of the Central Department of Economics Dr. Ram Prasad Gyanwalyfor his precious suggestions.

I would like to express my heart full thanks to the staffs of Tribhuvan University Central Library and Forest Research Library. I am very much indebted to V manager of Tikhedhunga MHP for their kindly help during data collection in the field.

I would like to thank my friend Santosh subedi for this generous support in preparing the thesis. Thanks due to Basanta Rasali, Pawan Singh, Nirmal thapa, ram Prasad subedi and Lekhnath subedi for their outstanding company during my two years study and learning in the campus, which help me for my thesis preparation and finalization as well.

I would like to express sincere gratitude towards my parents Mr. Dhanapati Subedi and Mrs. Radhika Subedi to the whole family members for their valuable encouragement and provision of suitable environment.

Last but not least, I am very grateful to my loving wife Kalpana Subedi for his patience, love and encouragement. Deep love and respect goes to my colleagues, parents, family members and all the team of teachers in the Department of Economics who always inspire me to build my education career.
