Abstract

The study entitled "Socio -Economic Status of Rural Women" analyzes the status of rural women particularly in Ugratara VDC of Kavre District. The VDC comprised of 9 Wards. Ward 5 comprises of Tamang community and 8 of Sarki community only. In this VDC majority of Brahmin/ Chhetri and Newar. Ugratara VDC is 25 km from Kathmandu. It is surrounded by Banepa municipality at east, Mahendra Joti VDC at west, TukuchaNala and UgrachandiNala VDC at north and Panauti VDC and Mahendrajyoti VDC at south. The study area Ugratara VDC Ward No. 1, there is 125 household in among these households 40 are taken as a sample to collect the required information.

The main objective of this research is to study and analyze decision of making of households women. Resource procurement, their use socio-economic and political condition of rural women of Ugratara V.D.C. are:

To find out the factors affecting decision making of household women.

To examine the role of women in household resources procurement and their use.

To explore the study of women in term of their socio-economic and political conditions.

Basically, the study is based on descriptive as well as exploratory. Descriptive research is design is used together information exploratory research. Research design is use for collecting information with respondents' views and ideas.

The research is based on both primary and secondary data which are collected from field survey, observation and interview. Primary data has been directly obtained from field survey. Secondary data collect from VDC, AamaSamuha, VDC Profile, Unpublished documents and office records related magazine

The field survey find that literate women is less than men, illiterate 20%, literate 12%, under SLC 30%, SLC 17.5%, Intermediate 15% and above 5%. It is not sufficient for the education most of the women can read only. Now women wants send their daughter because they will give them good future.

In this study find that women have lack of freedom, opportunity, low education, lack communication, knowledge, awareness, traditional beliefs, custom value and system. Women have mostly burden of work. Most of them are engaged substance agriculture and very few are engaged in small scale, wages, tea shop, small shop, tailor etc. Few women are participation in political parties.

In each and every sector the women status is low, therefore to improve their status, it is necessary to bring them in mainstream of development. Policy and programmed should focus on the gender issues and such policy and programmed should be implemented strictly with from commitment.

Here, for the overall development of country. Women participation is a fundamental factor in all sector of the country. Gender equality is essential factor for the development of all sectors where women can participate fully for the development of economy. There must be suitable environment for the women and gender equality where government and non-government organization fully participate.

Equal participation of male and female should be considered as development issue so, government has to formulate equal participation policy in each level and implement it effectively.
