INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background of the Study

It is well known fact that travelling has been a human phenomenon since the beginning of human civilization. It is a sensitive factor of the human nature in the context of moving to survive, explore and to know that unknown. Yet tourism is often taken to be a new phenomenon associated with our present civilization. The ancients undertake travels for personal or collective interest or out of curiosity and regions sentiments. But the modern science and technology advancement, higher incomes and saving longer, leisure times, demographic expansion, cheaply facilitated and diversified tourists services, spread of education etc. have made the term “Tourism” more households as well as the most dynamic and important for not only developing countries. Nepal, a country of natural paradise, is unique due to its peculiar topography, diverse climate and cultural heritage. Nepal has many tourists’ destinations and range of comparative advantages. The most spectacular mountains in the world, people of different races, religious, cultures, and costumes, a wide variety of flora and fauna and a varied climate are the large and growing tourist’s world. To develop sustainable tourism and to achieve the opium socio-economic benefits, the activities like eco -tourism, community based tourism or village tourism should be highly promoted.

Nepal one of the most unique exotic and remote destinations in the tourism map of the world s unquestionably a country deemed with countless natural wonders and exhilarating tourism products. The treasury of its product potentiality is endless. It’s not only the highest peak Mt.Everest and the deepest gorge of kali-Gandaki but there are other innumerable natural cultural and never-to-be found elsewhere features in this land. Once visited, one is tempted to visit Nepal again. This is a country old historic monuments and heritage site. It wouldn’t be an exaggeration to say tourism potentiality of Nepal, if utilized properly and with a little seriousness on the part of the plans and policy makers; it would prove itself like the Hen that used to lay Golden eggs in fairy tales.

Nepal is a hotplate for such type of tourism that can offer the visitors an opportunity to experience the closeness of nature and traditional culture with unique life style of the local people. Besides all of that, it can be important source of foreign exchange earnings industry creation employment opportunities and generating economics opportunities and generating economics growth of the country. Nepal’s economy is generating us $148 million annually and attracting just 375398 foreign visitors in the year 2005 (MOCTCA 2004/2005). Tourism provides direct and indirect employment for over 3 lakhs people in Nepal. In this scenario, there is no doubt that expansion of Tourism to village will contribute more to the economic development for the country like Nepal.

Village tourism as a phenomenon is concerned with river, sun environment, rural society and household. It represents conservation, lifestyle, experience, adventure and above all the nature adventure oriented benefits to the local people. The objective of village includes helping tourist to plan a trip, choose a tour and minimize ecological impact. Village tourism is a planned and balanced industry. Its dimension is very broad. Benefits are shared by all in an equitable distribution pattern. These who are live in tourism region are considered as participation in the village tourism activities. Village tourism in which the villagers are not left as superior beings of their own circumstances. Village tourism must address innovative transfers of technology, economic development and the socio- cultural environment. So, there is no doubt to say village tourism is the best tourism in all type of tourism.

Nepal has an experience in sustainable tourism particularly eco- tourism. So, it desires to develop village tourism as a vehicle for supplementing in poverty alleviation of the country.

Village tourism, being the key strategy for economic growth leads village economy by generating income, employment and industry. No doubt village tourism, in fact, is a powerful weapon to poverty alleviation as well as unemployment problem. If appropriate and relevant policies are adopted with adequate resources, village tourism could be a miracle to enhance the economic condition of the poor and local people of the village.

Palpa is located in western region of the country at Lumbini zone has a historical importance. The natural setting of this district is very beautiful. It is also a place of god gifted natural assets, mountain and Himalayan scene, river basin, favorable climate and others attraction which will be of great interest for the tourist Madan Pokhara, Tanhu, Argali, DeuleArchale, Chilangdi etc. are the village which has a wide prospect for the development of village tourism in Palpa district.

Madan Pokhara VDC has a wide prospect for the development of tourism, but there is no macro or micro level study related to the tourism. Madan Pokhara VDC has all the necessary infrastructures to develop as a tourist destination. It is a well accepted fact that Nepal has many tourist attraction like Madan Pokhara , Sirubari, Ghandruk, Ghalegaun, etc. we need not to do anything for boosting these areas with tourism except managing the resources and introducing innovative transfer of technology. Most of the studies on tourism in Nepal are conducted in macro level, thus the recommendations are generalized in nature. But we also need some specific type of recommendations in order to upgrade the tourism in our country, which is possible through a macro level study of the problem. Hence, this research is based on micro level with a case study of Madan Pokhara, which will be an attempt to investigate the issues relating to the village tourism promotion at macro level. Thus, this study is proposed the improvement and problem identified regarding village tourism and its socio- economic impact on local people.

1.2 Statement of the Problem

Benefits of tourism are disproportionately distributed to the centre (Kathmandu) from incoming tourists. Much of the tourists' dollar remains in Kathmandu and little finds its way into other parts of the country. There exists a situation of core-periphery dependency in which the centre controls to a very considerable extent of the distributions of tourism around Nepal, accumulating most of the income generated, organizing much of the travel activities in pre-paid packages, and supplying many of the needs from the centre so that benefits flowing out to rural areas and small towns are limited (SNV, 2003).

A series of general problems are vivid in the context of tourism development in the rural areas of the country. There are poorly developed access and local institutions in the rural areas. Lack of means, knowledge and opportunities and poorly developed backward and forward linkages have seriously hindered tourism development in the remote rural areas of the country. Similarly, weak coordination between the centre and local institutions, limited ability of the local, persistent inequalities and fragile biophysical environment are some other major problems in this field

In Nepal there are many places and sections, which are distinct and carry huge potentials for tourism development. Among them palpa is such a unique place where there are many natural, cultural and other attractions which can attract domestic as well as foreign tourists. As most other districts, palpa is a multi-ethnic district. It is rich in cultural, religious sites which could be attraction centers for the religious tourists. The increasing interest of foreign tourists in diverse rural life styles and diverse culture and pristine nature have made it imperative to do something for the development of tourism in palpa district.

Madan pokhara VDC has a wide prospect for the development of tourism, but there is no macro or micro level study related to the tourism. Madan Pokhara VDC has all the necessary infrastructures to develop as a tourist destination. It is a well accepted fact that Nepal has many tourist attraction like Madan Pokhara , Sirubari, Ghandruk, Ghalegaun, etc. we need not to do anything for boosting these areas with tourism except managing the resources and introducing innovative transfer of technology. Most of the studies on tourism in Nepal are conducted in macro level, thus the recommendations are generalized in nature. But we also need some specific type of recommendations in order to upgrade the tourism in our country, which is possible through a macro level study of the problem. Hence, this research is based on micro level with a case study of madanpokhara, which will be an attempt to investigate the issues relating to the village tourism promotion at macro level. Thus, this study is proposed the improvement and problem identified regarding village tourism and its socio- economic impact on local people.

In this context following are the research problem and questions:

-) Prospects and challenges of village tourism in Madan Pokhara VDC.
-) Are people of Madan Pokhara aware of tourism?
-) Are people aware of the importance of tourism?
-) Are people feeling their responsibility to develop tourism in their villages?
-) Are local people aware of the impact and benefit of tourism?
-) Role of the rural tourism for poverty reduction

1.3 Objectives of the Study

The general objective of this study is to analyze the prospect and challenges for the development of village tourism in Palpa and to suggest various measures for development in tourism. Following are the specific objectives.

Specific Objectives

-) To analyze the present status of tourism infrastructure for village tourism in palpa district.
-) To analyze the benefits and opportunities receiving by local people from village tourism in palpa district.
-) To explore potentiality of village tourism in Madan Pokhara VDC

1.4 Significance of the Study

Nepal is recognized as an ideal tourist destination for culture and nature lovers. Diversity in terms of geography, ethnic communities and cultural heritages is the defining characteristic of Nepali society. Tourism development in Nepal is largely dependent upon expanding linkages between nature conservation and tourism. While Nepal's rich natural heritage attracts a large number of nature loving tourists, the country also suits the taste of other types of visitors like the culture lovers, sports persons and adventure seekers as well. Its hospitable people and their rich and colorful socio-cultural heritage are the major attractions for the people from the western parts of the World.

Tourism is one of the most potential economic sectors of Nepal. It creates employment opportunities, generates foreign exchange and could attract foreign direct investment. Realizing this fact government of Nepal has accorded utmost

Emphasis on the promotion and expansion of tourism industry since early 1960s, Promotion of community based village tourism has given continuity in the recent three years interim plan (2007/2020) etc.

Village tourism is the most essential element for our national development. It is regarded as a means of creating employment opportunities it is also aimed at diversifying and improving local economies without exerting any adverse environment and ecological impact. Village tourism may also ultimately bolster national economy by making the visitors stay longer in the country. Furthermore, sustained tourism may not only check the prevailing problems of migration of rural people in urban areas but also help integrated community development by involving people in the wise use of natural resources and environmental management.

Majority of Nepali people dwell on the rural areas and villages and the villagers have been generally visitor friendly. Receiving guests and looking after them well has been an age old tradition and a way of life. Guests, in a rural setting in particular, have been considered god sent (AthitiDevoBhava) even when they arrive uninvited

This study will be concerned with the importance of tourist in Nepal with reference to growth trend and foreign currency earning. The importance of this study includes the review of major problems in the growth of tourism and tourism policies of Nepal. The study, through serving aforementioned objectives, aims at giving suitable policy recommendation that might be useful to the planners and policy makers, students, researchers, and these with purely academic interest in Nepalese tourism industry.

Besides all this, the following points also highlights on the rationale of this study:

-) The study has highlighted on the socio-economic and cultural reality of the local people.
-) It has raised the level of awareness among the people in and around the study area to preserve nature, culture and environment.
-) It has also explored the major problems and prospects to promote village tourism in Madan Pokhara VDC.
-) It has paved the way for the development of village tourism in Madan Pokhara VDC.
-) It will have significant contribution in tourism diversification of the country in terms of both place and product once its success stories are replicated by other districts that would contribute in attaining the overarching goal of poverty alleviation.

1.5 Scope and Limitations of the Study

Like other type study, this study also will not be free from limitations. For performing any type of research is no doubt a very challenging preposition. It is obvious that student will have certain limitations in completion of the study. Some of the most common limitations which the students anticipate to encounter during the undertaking of this study can be specified as follows.

-) Lack of sufficient literatures on the topic and secondary sources of information.
-) The study is being undertaken within a modest budget.
-) The study is proposed to be completed within a limited time.
-) Authenticity of information and substantial representative of sample population

1.6 Organization of the Study

The thesis has been broadly divided into six chapters. The first chapter has introduced the topic with some background information. It has also presented the problem, objectives, and significance of the study. The second chapter has reviewed relevant literature. The third chapter has built theoretical frameworks for analysis. The fourth chapter has settled on problems and prospects of village tourism in Palpa district under the introduction of the study area. The fifth chapter has presented relevant data and information that include findings of field survey. The last chapter has concluded the study and putted forward recommendations to promote Madan Pokhara VDC as an important tourist destination for both domestic as well as international tourists that would contribute in achieving overarching goal of poverty alleviation.

CHAPTER TWO

LITERATURE REVIEW

2.1 Conceptual Literature Review

The word “Tourism” so popular now a day, is derived from the French word “Tourisme” which was originated in 19th century, which literally means to travel and travel related jobs. According to Webmaster’s new international dictionary tourism is defined as “Travelling for recreation”. Travel may be regarded tourists if it meets with the three essential conditions such as:

-) Temporary
-) Voluntary
-) Not have remunerated employment as its aim.

The Australian Economist Hermann von Schullard gave the first definition of tourism in 1910. He defined as “the sum total of operation mainly of economic nature, which directly related to the entry, stay and movement of foreigners inside and outside a certain country, city or region” another definition of tourism was given by Edmond Picard, Professor of economics at the University of Brussels as follows “The function of tourism is to import currency from foreign resources into the country. Its impact is what tourist expenditures can do the different sectors of the economy and in particular the hotel keepers”.

In 1942, two Swiss Professors, Walter Hunziker and Kurt Kraft had defined tourism as: “Tourism is the sum of phenomenon and relationship arising from the travel and stay of non-resident, in so far as they don’t lead to permanent resident and are not connected with any earning activities.” The above definition clearly defines the few points, which is mention as follows:

-) Tourism arises from a movement of people to and their stay in various destinations.
-) There are two elements in all tourism, the journeys to the destination and the stay including activities at the destination.
-) The journey and the stay place outside the normal place or residence and work, so that tourism gives rise to activities. Which are distinct from those of the resident and working population of the places, through which tourist travel and which they stay?

-) The movement to destination is of a temporary, short term character, with intention to return within a few days, few weeks or months.
-) Destination are visited for purpose other than taking up permanent residence or employment International Union of Official travel Organizations (IUOTO) proposed the definition of tourist in 1963 and approved in 1968 by the World Tourism Organization. The definition defines tourist as “temporary visitors staying at least twenty-four hour in the country visited and purpose of whose journey can be classified under one of the following headings:

-) Leisure (recreation, holiday, health, study, religion, and sport)
-) Business (family, mission, meeting)

In a wide and comprehension term a tourist is a person who travels to learn, to appreciate nature, to relax and to enjoy a change outside his country.

Tourism in Nepal

Tourism is a phenomenon established in this country ever since the beginning of human civilization. But no record is available to explain how it went on during the course of part century’s expert a few inscriptions that tell us about the historic visits of some monks from the friendly countries of north and south. Never the less, when we talk about the modern tourism, we refer to the early fifties of the last century when Nepal was officially made open for the foreign visitors. This was one of the achievements of the political change that had taken place to end autocratic regime of the Ranas. Nepal established diplomatic relations with my countries and was no more “forbidden land”. Tourists were permitted to enter into Nepal easily. In 1953, TenzingNorgey Sherpa and Edmund Hillary climbed Mt. Everest, the highest peak in the world hero. Nepal became the member of UNO in the same year. All in all, Nepal was put on the world map.

In 1956 Nepal established a tourist development Board under the department of Industry to develop tourism in duty throughout the country. In the same year coronation of late His majesty the King Mahendra was held. This auspicious coronation ceremony was observed as National festivals. Many Heads of states and diplomats from different countries of the world visited Nepal during the occasion, and major efforts were made to impress the distinguished visitor’s. The first group tours consisted of Americans and two Brazilians organized under the pioneer body of Sir Thomas cook and sons arrived at Kathmandu in the autumn of 1956.

Nepal further succeeded to get the membership of the different international tourism development institution such as International union of official Travel Organization (IUOTO), South Asia Travel Commission (SATC), The Pacific Area Travel Association (PATA), and the American Society of Travel agents (ASTA). At first the national flag carrier Royal Nepal Airlines Corporation were built in the late 1960s.

Systematic tourism in Nepal started from 1966 with the established of a few hotels. The industry was further strengthened and established after the formation of tourism master plan in 1972, which gave emphasis to tourism market development sightseeing, trekking, eco-tourism and recreational and adventure tourism.

Nepal adopted the planned policies in tourism with the initiation of five year economic plans since 1956. Due to political instability before 1951, no special policies and plans on tourism could be formulated. The experience of international world taught Nepal to perform the development activities through planning consequently five year plan started Nepal in 1956. Even though tourism industry in Nepal become fully run up since the Nepal Tourism Master Plan (NTMP) formulated in 1972 at national level, Nepal Tourism Master Plan projected programs came up two phases as the first, phase 1972-1975 for four year and the second phase 1976-1980 for the five years.

Concept of Village Tourism

This is micro model tourism where as rural tourism based on macro level. Village tourism refers to tourists staying in or village, often traditional villages in remote area, and learning about the villager's life style. The villages may also serve as base from which tourists explore nearby areas. (McIntyre, 1993, WTO)

Urry (2002) uses the term landscape (including village's cape) the village tourism involves provision of local style accommodation, locally produced food items on tourist menus and the organization of tourist participation in village activities. The villagers build own inns and operate expenditures. Successful village tourism doesn't require large capital investments but does need to be Carefully planned and programmed; the villages must be trained to manage and operate facilities and services, and small loans may need to be made to the villagers with technical advices avoided for the initial development.

Village tourism development has to be sustainable and must meet the needs of the visitors and host communities while protecting and enhancing opportunities for the future. It must be fully integrated with the community in which you are located. The entity must integrate comprehensive phenomenon of society. It requires total integration which involves consideration of health and safety aspects, conservation of natural resources, renewable, energy supplies and other environmental manifestation. In addition, total integration involves maintaining the lifestyle and dignity of indigenous inhabitants by protecting the social fabric of the local community, assuring local economic opportunities and guarding against exploitation by the outside world.

The concept of village tourism can be attributed towards the desires of urban affluent whose life is mechanized and mostly fagged from artificial amenities whether we have that situation and phenomenon or not? Village tourism mostly attracts middle level income peoples. Such environment must have tended towards the relaxation or change. In Europe, the village tourism is in prosperous form. For example in Austria, many villages' communities run small scale cottages. Inns, and guest's rooms and the tourists provided bed and breakfast (Paudel: 1999).

Village tourism can be based on special areas, locality, settlement and village with its typical peculiarity because rarely possesses varieties or mosaic of specialties. To cite few examples- stout fish popularity of RanipouwaTrishuli and fish items of Malekhu on the highway, hot spring water bath at SingaBabiyachaur of Myagdi and Kermi –Humla or Limi for Shambala trek and Bhot culture – Humla , Ranighat Durbar –Palpa, Madanpokhara VDC –Palpa, and etc. (Sharma: 2005

Factors of Tourism Development

Village Tourism in Nepal

Village tourism is an emerging concept in Nepalese tourism industry. It is one of the best ways to know the locals and their culture close by visitors, domestic and international, can get opportunities to experiences a stay in an unspoiled village with natural setting and living as a family member in homely environment.

In Nepal, the term village tourism come- up in recent years as another not clearly defined concept. Nepal introduced a program of village tourism aiming at promoting country's tourism industry in 2052 B.S for the first time. Though promotion of tourism in the sense attracted more or less from the beginning of 1960, but concrete steps to promote and intensify tourism development activities in a more scientific and ordinate way were made when a high level "Nepal Tourism Development Committee" was formed in 1970 on the financial and technical assistance of the government of the federal Republic of Germany. The world of the committee culminated in the publication of the "Nepal Tourism Master plan" in 1972 when has been the basis for all future activities in the field of tourism development in future.

In 2nd may 1956 the coronation of king Mahendra was regarded as the great landmark in development of tourism and its incident attracted many tourist into Nepal, though Nepal has already expanded the diplomatic relation with worlds famous organizations such as UNESCO, FAO, WHO etc After getting the membership of the UNO in 1995, gradually Nepal becomes known to the outside world. The first group tours consisted of twelve American and two Brazilians organized under the pioneer boy of Sir Thomas Cook and his Son arrived at Kathmandu in the tourism industry and finally it is alternative resources of income.

Village tourism is a relatively new concept as well as must be an integral part of the whole tourism scenario and also to be looked upon as supplementing the whole effort, which is of interest not to those in the tourism industry but also the developed professions policy makers and local communities as a potentially uncreative mechanism for conserving the natural areas and use to revenge for local conservation and economic development activities.

Eleven model tourist villages were proposes to be spread out among the various geographical divisions of the country. Only a few tourists' villages have come up including Sirubari of Sanjaya district, GhaleGaun at Lamjung district, which has been practicing as community based village tourism like Sirubarias taken thirteen households as sampled since t 20 Baisakha 2058 and also Khasur and Bhanjung village at lamjung district. Likewise, thuloPersel and kartikDeuraliGaun in Kavre, Ghandruk and Siklesh in Kaski, Parbat, Mustang, Manang, Dang, Pyuthan, Illam, Taplejung, and etc.

Nevertheless Nepal tourism Board has adopted a policy of expanding village tourism all over the Kingdom, and plane to develop village as an industry for poverty reduction. Likewise, Nepal village Resort Private Limited has been devoting to improve rural base tourism since 1997. Which at first taken as sample to introduce village tourism at Solukhumbu, dhankuta, Lamjung and Therathum. The next private NGO SNV/NEPAL has been involves developing sustainable tourism in the rural areas, like Illam and Teplejung.

Though nearly Forty years after just from ninth plan his Majesty government of Nepal keeps on the rural base tourism in the rural areas by making special policy and strategy at the national level, The concept of village tourism has been developed and priorities are given to promote the village tourism, so that village people will get direct benefits from tourism. In order to enhance these sectors the following policies and strategies have been formulated.

-) Tourism activities will be promoted in the village that can benefit to the village people directly as well as indirectly. Resources rich village for tourist attraction will be developed in to tourist centers. One village in each of the 14 zones will be developed as a model village during this plan period.
-) Private sectors and local agencies will be involved and encouraged in the sector so that more revenue can be generated.
-) Investment of the public and private sector will be gradually increased to create basic infrastructure solely on the basis of pre- planning and zoning of few feasible tourist spots.
-) Temple monasteries, buildings, national sites of historical, religious and cultural significance will be preserved, well developed and utilized as tourist spot. They will be registered as national heritage, participation of general and local people for this conservation.
-) The tourist's areas of cultural, natural, historical and religious heritage will be preserved by local VDC and municipalities.

-) Non –government organization that work for up life mint of ethnic groups by utilizing their cultural heritage will be encouraged to design and implement various projects that can generate income for the ethnic groups by utilizing their ethnic cultural heritage.
-) His Majesty the government ministry of tourism and Civil Aviation had declared Sirubari Village Syanja as a first model tourist village in 1998.

2.2 Literature Review on Previous studies

National Plans and Policies on Review

First five year plan (1956-1961)

During this plan, a tourist’s development board was established in 1957 and tourist information center was established in 1959 and the rest of the world better knew Nepal since 1957 onwards. Since this was the first five year plan of government it couldn’t achieve much more accordingly with the plan. But this was an important initiation for the national development as well as tourism development in Nepal.

This plan aimed to complete the Kathmandu Airport runway, establishment of one hotel each at Pokhara and Biratnagar. Plantation of trees, established of library and museum and other programs were made for the development of Lumbini. Again, the maintenance and reconstruction of temples in Kathmandu valley was also given a priority during this plan to enhance tourism industry in Nepal.

Hotels of different standards were planned to be established in Kathmandu valley so that a total of 2600 hotel beds would be available. Emphasis was given to advertisement by establishing a photo laboratory and this plan aimed to establish a tourism information center in Pokhara and in Birgung and produce 150 guides during the plan period. Reading the impact of tourism on the national economy a master plan was prepared in this plan having all necessary ingredients to be implemented on a phase wise basis. The private sector was also encouraged by providing loans for hotel industry through Nepal Industrial Development Corporation (NIDC). Foreign experts were also invited to prepare the master plan for tourism development in effective way.

The tourism master plan pointed out the potentiality of sightseeing tourism, trekking tourism, 'Nepal style' tourism; recreational tourism as well as pilgrimage tourism in the country. The tenth five year plan (2002-2007)

The tenth plan reviewed the progress and problems during the ninth plan and concludes that tourism industry which is developing as the backbone of the country's economy, if its activities could be enhanced then not only the tourists who visits Nepal could be benefited but it could also generate employment and income generation opportunities for Nepali which finally could contribute in poverty alleviation. For which tenth plan has brought following objectives:

-) To develop tourism sector qualities and sustainable.
-) To conserve preserve and maintain the historical cultural, religious resources and increase its practical use.
-) To improve standardize and make air transport services easily accessible and affordable.

Three years Interim Plan (2007-2010)

The interim plan has accorded high priority to tourism development so as to make this sector a building block of the economy. It has emphasized on tourism diversification that would contribute for balanced regional development in the country. The plan has focused on rural tourism in order to raise the standard of living of rural people. It has introduced the concept of integrated tourism infrastructure development which is carried by the respective sect-oral ministries. The plan has a policy to encourage the youth and the people from backward communities, women and the rural poor to participate in tourism related awareness and employment oriented trainings and skill development and capacity development programs.

The government of Nepal had brought out, for the first time in its history, a separate set of Tourism Policy in 1995. Its cross-sectoral linkages were found crucial to support other sectors of the economy too. With distinct aims of expanding broad based tourism in the country, it has emphasized on the income generating activities at central as well as rural level to support in narrowing down the regional imbalances through tourism. The major objectives of the Policy are to accommodate natural, cultural and human environment for the sake of tourism at the internal front as well as reinventing the prestigious image of the country as an attractive tourist destination internationally. It has also dwelt upon the linkages between tourism and agro-based and cottage industries. The local communities are motivated to take part in tourism and the village tourism has been especially encouraged.

A commendable part with the Tourism Policy is that the respective roles of the government and the private sector have been clearly delineated. The government is bestowed with the role to act as a catalyst; leader, coordinator and facilitator while the commercial and business activities are set-aside for the private investors. Development of the required infrastructures and facilities in the rural areas, enhancement of the quality of services, promotion of pilgrimage, and development of adventure tourism are also some of the major activities mentioned in the policy document but failing concrete actions to support those initiatives. More critical review is done in the following segments.

Visit Nepal 1998

On April 12, 1996, His Majesty Government declared the year 1998 as visit Nepal '98 as in order to further enhance the image of Nepal as a special destination for the visitors. In 1998, more tourists visited Nepal than the previous years. In VNY'98 altogether 463,684(9.9%) tourists visited Nepal incomparision to 1997. In the year 1997,421,857 tourists visited Nepal and ratio of Percent change between 1997 and 1998 was 2% respectively. In 1998,491,504, tourists arrival in Nepal.

In VNY'98 it was 10.8 days which increased up to o.3 days compared to 1997. In 1997average length of stay was 10.5 days. In 1999it was estimated that the average length of Stay increased by 12.8days.

Tourism industry is the largest smokeless, and it is also the rapidly growing industry in the world. Therefore, the field of tourism is being wider not only in the develop countries but also in under develop countries like Nepal. To make study more reliable some of the important available reports, manuals, articles, workshops, proceedings and stories on tourism and different types of research study in tourism development programs by different institutions undertaken nationally and globally have been reviewed. Although many documents were available writing specific to “prospect and challenges for the Development of village tourism in Palpa, a case study of Madan Pokahara” is lacking. Following literature has been found useful for the purpose of this study (research)..

Kayastha (1985), made a study on tourism in “South Asia Region”. In this study he has analyzed different aspect of tourism like tourist flow, expenditure, duration of the stay and impact of tourism. The study pointed out the natural as well as manmade beauty and wildlife is the major attraction for the tourist visiting Nepal. In his view, tourism is an important sector for income and employment generation. This study has concluded that land and air transportation services have been a major factor contributing the growth of intra-regional tourism in South Asia. Number of south Asian tourist visiting Nepal has been increasing. Most of them visit to Nepal for pleasure followed by official work and business point of view.

Burger (1978) studied “The Economic Impact of Tourism in Nepal”. In this study he attempted to analyzed input and output of Nepalese tourism. Based on both primary and secondary information the study mention the majority of the tourist comes for pleasure and sightseeing purpose and only one out of six tourists who visited India also visit Nepal. The study conclude that although is tourism is a recent phenomenon in Nepal, it has grown at an astonishing rate and tourism can notably help for the economic development of the country if it properly planned and monitored.

S.N. Tiwari (1981) has studied on “Prospect and Problem of Tourism in Nepal”. This study deals with the prospect of tourism development it economic values and development trend. The study indicates that tourism the fastest growing industry that any other industries in Nepal.

I. K Pradhan (1979) conducted a study on “Tourism resort and its Economy Impact”. The study deals with the need for improving tourist resort in Nepal. The study states that expenditure of tourist depends on the extent of facilities provided to them in resort and their surroundings.

Khadaka (1993): on this doctoral thesis “Tourism and economic Development” observe the problem such as lack of surplus generation. There have been studied on the economic impact of tourism in the developing countries. These studies shows that some developing countries have been able to use tourism as a means of surplus generation for the future development, but many developing countries have not been successful to do so. In fact Tourism for many developing countries turned out to be an enclave industry and become a means of surplus drain. Objectives as stated were to be concerned with the impact of tourism and development in Nepal. In this dissertation he has setting the two specifics objectives.

According to him, in present Nepalese policies direct air links to the European countries seem to be a timely approach. Furthermore it seems that Nepal can benefit from the increasing tourism in china. If Kathmandu develops as the gateway to china and established direct air links with the main Chinese tourism destination.

Yanja Raj Satyal (2000), Tourism is contributing much to the economic and cultural growth in different regions o Nepal. International visitors whose journal is destined for different regions due to trekking are increasing in number. The promotion of international tourism indifferent regions directly enhances their regional economy through the development of tourism industry. He also mentioned the socio- cultural impacts of tourism as it was said that tourism indeed helped some mountain communities to persist, but as it does traditional life inevitably changes. Trekking and mountaineering life not only provide jobs in the agricultural off season, but by so doing they alter the life of farmer and herders and offset the fragile balance intrinsic to mountain.

Dr. R.R Kunwar (1997) says that country not only earns foreign exchanges and provides jobs and employment but also provides lots of basic needs comfort and modern amenities to locals and corrects regional disparities by developing various infrastructures for tourism.

Pradhang (1992), who is recognized as “Father of village tourism and discovers of scientific tourism has defined village tourism as village tourism as “Village tourism is a grassroots level of tourism designed its own Nepali village style mobilized by Nepali people themselves, their skills and resources displayed as village life style and environment, involved by groups of village tourist assigned by Nepali adult authorities positively within its balance of social and environmental function and strengthened the village and village economy “And he further defined that village tourism is a planned industry. Its dimension is very broad benefits are shared by all in inequitable distribution pattern. Those who live in tourism region are considered as participants in tourism activities village tourism in which the villagers are not left as creatures but always graded as superior beings of their own circumstances”.

Nandita Jain,(2003) the concept of village based tourism need to be focused on the few things as given below: transit trekking route scenery comfortable,

) Reason for stay: any special function or specialty

) New product: which the tourists don't get it anywhere and extra demands of tourists.

The objective of village tourism despite often ambiguous is to tourist to attract natural areas and use to revenues for local conservation and economic development activities (Tourism Development Management Committee).

) The tourist village family, who pays respect and love to tourist, is a peculiarity of village tourism.

- J Village tourism leads to dynamism in tourism industry. It concerns with all villages of Nepal. Most importantly, tourism in Nepal has been one of the most important supporting features of Nepalese economy.
- J Tourism affects the village society and socio- economic pattern of the people. Tourist influence food habits, family structure religion language and psychology of the local people.
- J Tourism development is not an isolated task. It is in interdisciplinary work concerning different sectoral activities.
- J Tourism is goes that lay golden eggs. Basically, village tourism plan focused on the target group of tourist intending to participate in program that provides local benefit.

Raman Grandon (2003), “Sirubari Village” the first model tourism village was initiated by Nepal Village Resort PVT.LTD in 1997. It was the first steps towards introducing commonly based village tourism, Nepal village is trying to give tourist a rare chance of experiencing and learning the indigenous cultural and tradition by staying there as one of the member of the community. People here have more employment opportunities now and there is less danger of losing the culture. It is also in the interest of the resort to make the local people and community a direct beneficiary of economic gains out of tourism. That is why the concept of community based village tourism which entails that every community should get benefit from tourism which can in turn be used for the development of the place.

Dr .S.B Pradhanga (2002), has to stay that urban base alone is not enough for sustainable development of tourism. According to his opinion that village has its own place in the scheme of things. After all the villagers are the centers where the people through their day to day life exhibit their language, culture, religion and other facts this is the place where the real Nepal can be found and observed.

Though the lack of balanced tourism sees that there is a mere 4 percent contribution from village tourism to Gross Product (GDP) but if the whole strategy is revised then village tourism can be able to contribute 40 percent to GDP.

Likewise, Sharma (2006) in his article “Village Tourism for the Sustainability of Rural Development” in Nepalese Journal of Development and Rural Studies (Vol 3.1, Jan-Jun 2006) has extracted the quotes of the Tenth Plan (PRSP, 2002) the tourism sector can be an important instrument of poverty reduction by increasing employment opportunities directly and indirectly in urban as well as rural areas, particularly in the hills and mountain areas along trekking trails and tourism sites. He has asserted that it can be aids-led tourism development where problem of sustainability and indigenous efforts will be overshadowed.

Dhungana (2008) has written in the form of a record; unfold Nepal's glorious history, culture and traditions as well as the present carnage of violence and political instability engendered by the unleashing of the hitherto dormant social and political forces. Despite the rather grim scenario of the present, the author offers a ray of hope for the future through his own patriotic affection for the genuine philosophical heritage of the motherland, the natural beauty of the landscape abundant in diverse flora and fauna, and the sense of inner peace and harmony that is to be gained by living a truly religious, non-violent, philanthropic and contemplative life dedicated to the well being of all.

According to Nepal Tourism Statistics 2007, 5, 26,705 tourists visited Nepal during 2007 with an increase of 37.2 percent over the previous year. The largest number of tourist, visited Nepal for recreational purposes 2, 17,815 (41.4 percent), similarly, adventure tourists posted the highest average length of stay in the country. The average length of stay was recorded as 11.96 days. It can be fairly said that promotion of village tourism would significantly increase the average length of stay of tourists in the country.

In the global changeable trend, we need to handle according to the changing human psychology or we should modify the policies and strategies that will extend tourist stay in the country and since tourism is an active industry we should change with international trends. In this regard a noted tourism industrialist of Nepal, Karna Shakya puts forward, "Tourism is not a trade; neither just an industry. It's a science of understanding human psychology and we need to change with the changing trends and psychology if we want to keep up with the international community."

2.3 Prospects, Impacts and Challenges of Village Tourism

Nepal has no acuteness of resources and opportunities for tourism development, be it for international or domestic/village tourism. Tourism today has become not only for a comprehensive phenomenon but also back bone of the economy for the countries like ours and many more (Pudasaini: 2004). As Nepal is overwhelmingly rural dominant country, rural tourism promotion and development can be important measure to escape and fight with poverty the national challenges.

The tenth plan (PRSP) also envisages the tourism sector can be important instruments of poverty reduction by increasing employment opportunities directly and indirectly in urban as well as rural areas particularly in the hills and mountains areas along with trekking trails and tourism sites. It can contribute the national income through the expansion of tourism activities and generation of employment opportunities (NPC, 2003).

Nepal is considered as one of the LDCs in the world ranking and faces wide range of difficulties and challenges towards its development. Majority of rural area is backward poverty stricken and possesses high rate illiteracy. Poor infrastructure development in terms of communication links and roads, basic health services and geographical remoteness, thus one of the keys to development of rural areas is through positive, effective, and efficient management. Promotion marketing and sponsoring village tourism in Nepal, the prospects for village tourism and development in Nepal hold good due to its destination attraction potentials. However its capacity in terms of tourism service and supply is limited by poor infrastructure. Poor management, poor entrepreneurship skills, instable political environment and difficult geo-physical location which cannot suffice the tourists demand. Accommodation complements other components of tourism service oriented business generate the greatest economic impacts in terms of employment income tax and revenue and they are the source of multiplier effects and linkages through indirect support of other sectors. Many other places like Madan Pokhara VDC contain great natural as well as cultural attraction but tourism is almost absent or very poor development due to lack of proper access.

For country like Nepal, which one of the LDCs with GDP- growth rate of 0.9% from tourism sector in fiscal year 2006/07 (GoN, n.d:10) and recovering from the past ten years of insurgency conflict, it is apparent that GoN faces a Herculean challenges and tasks in planning, programming, financing, supporting, executing, sponsoring, monitoring, evaluating all its national objectives simultaneously.

In such situation a public private partnership program could help it. A collective effort is required. The convergence of need and capacity of both the locals and the tourists is expected where a win-win situation for both is likely. While promoting tourism, the entrepreneurs have to learn some ideas and experience from outside too. The challenges of village tourism of Nepal are many more however in a nutshell the following can be enumerated:

-) More than one third of the population is under the poverty line. Most village tourism potential areas are beyond the accessibility of domestic tourists.
-) The affluent rarely has leisure time and the leisure one has no money, i.e. the level of economic condition is adverse.

-) Political instability, poor governance, conflict, insecurity, unrest and apathetic culture are the main impediments of the development.
-) The specialty and identity of village tourism destinations is mostly unexplored or half-explored, inaccessible and underdeveloped.
-) The government has insufficient plan, policies and programs regarding the promotion of village tourism.
-) There is a lack of preservation, conservation, and promotion policies or incentives.
-) Since the lack of research studies, central information network system has not been established except the office of Nepal Tourism Board.
-) Urban centre oriented development plan and priorities of the government tend urban migration, consequently most ethnic cultures, feast and festival, ceremonies and celebrities such as Dohori, Deuda, Dhime, Dhannach, Troanla, Sorathi, Twnonte, Lotchar, etc, are urbanized as well as faked.
-) The awareness level of the locals is very low who cannot identify themselves and use resources around them.
-) Conservative social structure, traditional concept and legacy, parochial culture, social taboos and slow impact of advance cultures are some of the challenges to this regard.
-) There is a lack of information dissemination and communication i.e. ads and publicity; and etc.

Thus, village/community tourism is a meso tourism concept evolved lately in the tourism world. Nepal can be a model destination of it for she possesses multi- faced potentialities. Natural gifts, manmade heritages ethno- cultural richness, innocent social setting and hospitability and many more unexplored treasures are dreams for connoisseurs of tourism. Village tourism cannot prosper sans the convergence of needs of the affluent and the needy based on the premise of demand driven mechanism because it is a need base concept. Nepal can harness the boon of tourist potentiality rampant at the rural areas where government has pro-poor programs. Realizing the fact some donors and international agencies has taken initiative to promote the tourism development of Nepal as well as in the south Asian region. The mission cannot be achieved without a synergic effort of public private partnership. There are few challenges to be addressed as preconditions for the sustainability of rural development of the country.

CHAPTER THREE

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

3. Research Methodology

Nobody can argue about the fact that besides being boring, time consuming and requiring sufficient funds the study demands certain skills and correct approaches on the part of the students. For the detailed and exhaustive study on above subject, it is essential that we student instead of depending on a couple of methodologies utilize a many approaches as to be possible with this concept, I would like to apply the following techniques for the collection, translation, interpretation study and analysis of data.

3.1 Research Design

A descriptive cum exploratory research design was applied to analyze the present situation of the study area about the issues of the prospects and challenges for development of village tourism in palpa, a case study of Madan Pokhara VDC.

3.2 Sampling procedure

The study was adopted accidental and stratified sampling technique. The people involved in tourism industry, tourism policy making or implementation or the people engaged in teaching tourism in higher education with special focus on village tourism was interviewed through checklist method. The respondents were chosen from Madan Pokhara VDC of different ward. The questionnaire was distributed to the willing 40 people who were at the market area of Madan Pokhara VDC for a public gathering.

3.3 Nature and Sources of Data

There is no doubt that this study was based on primary as well as secondary information. The primary information was collected through field survey using different data collection methods such as observation, questionnaire survey and interview. Similarly, the secondary data was collected from tourism related organizations, libraries; publication literature published and unpublished papers and articles.

3.4 Methods of Data Collection

There are several data collection methods in this study. However, as per the nature of the proposed research, primary as well as secondary data was collected by the use of library, interview method, questionnaire survey method and observation method.

3.4.1 Use of Library and Literature Review

Generally, thesis work is done with the help of various references. The gathering of the subject matter related to the topic is likely to be an important first and ongoing stage. For the purpose of the study use of library has been an important method to collect information on the subject matter. Hence, the thesis writer studied literatures to collect the secondary information required for the study.

3.4.2 Questionnaire Survey Method

Questionnaire survey is the most commonly used method in every kind of research especially in the tourism industry. They are used to gain primary information from people or respondents who answer questions about themselves, their knowledge of particular subjects and their opinions. The questions in the questionnaires are structured so that each respondent answers in exactly the same way. This enables the researcher to compare the quantities. This method is more applicable to visitors, entrepreneurs and concerned agencies.

3.4.3 Observation Method

Observation is often a neglected method but the result can be recorded both quantitatively and qualitatively. In tourism, much can be learned about human behaviors by observing them, even at a distance. The researcher himself observed the study area personally to understand the problems and issues of the local people and the benefits received from tourism.

3.4.4 Key Informant Interview

Key informant interview was conducted with an informant checklist. Key informants were both qualitative as well as quantitative data that are essential to support the research program were collected. In order to collect data, local people, tourism entrepreneurs, elites group, development partners and social workers will take interviews.

3.5 Methods of Data Analysis and Presentation

Collected information was in appropriate table and charts. They were categorized and tabulated according to the objectives of the study. The data summarized used for qualitative as well as quantitative analysis. For the purpose of data analysis simple statistical tools such as frequency, average, presented by using models such a tabular formats, bar graphs, pie charts etc.

3.6 Study Area Description

Madan Pokahara VDC is one of the model VDCs of Nepal. This village is bounded by Telga, Masyam, Koldada, Keseni, Chirtungdhara and Tansen municipalities. About 20% land of this VDC is located in Madi valley. It is known that this part of Madi valley is evergreen area. This shows the laborious character of society. This VDC is situated 10 kilometer far from district headquarter, being a north- facing village, it is rich water resources and productivity is higher than neighboring VDCs. The total population of village is about 8000(VDC record). In this village Brahmin, Chettri, Magar, Newar, Gurung, Thakuri are among the dominant. The BK Tailor, Kumal are native and backward group. The religion of most of the villages is Hindu and festivals and religious activities are celebrated according to caste.

CHAPTER FOUR

THE EMPIRICAL STUDY AREA

4.1 Short Introduction of the Palpa District

The word “Palpa” was derived from the Mongolian tribal race Magar’s language “Walwa” which means money, skill, arts, and architect. Palpa was once the kingdom of Sen dynasty, which was very strong in western part of country. Bahadur shah took control of Palpa and unified in to the part of Nepal. With the introduction of panchyat system, Palpa became a district among the 75 districts of the country. Now Palpa is divided into 65 V.D.Cs and one municipality. The Palpa district, 1373 sq., km in size is bounded by Nawalparasi in east, Arghakanchi in west, Gulmi, Syangja and Tanahun in North, Rupendhei and Nawalparasi in south. This district is located between 83⁰ 15’ to 84⁰22’ east longitude and 27⁰ 34’ to 27⁰ 57’ north latitude. This district lies between 200 and 2000 meters above the sea level. The average temperature of palpa district is 23⁰c minimum temperature was not less than 3.7⁰c and the maximum temperature was not more than 35⁰c.

In hilly district Palpa, Madi, Rampur, Argali, Hungi, Kanchal, Darpuk, Sardewa, Purbakhola, Anghakhola are the attractive fertile valley. This district is rich in water resources; Gandaki, Tinau, Arghu, Redi, Angaha, Sardewa, Barangdi, Dobhan are the main rivers of this district. The main river of Nepal “Gandaki” is the border between Palpa and syangha district. The main valley of the district Rampur crosses the Gandaki River from north/west to east /south and Tinau crosses Madi valley from north/east to west/south. The food requirement of this district is rice, wheat, maize, millet, mustard, vegetables, coffee, lemon, ginger, etc. the population of Palpa is 261180 (2011) and the district headquarter is located at 4500 feet above the sea level. Tansen is visited from the national capital Kathandu simply by covering a total distance of 296km west via Butwal and 324 km west via Pokhara. Palpa has diverse culture and religion. Magars are the main inhabitants of this district followed by Brahmin, Chhetri, Newars, Bhojpuri, Tharu, Gurung, Maithali, Tamang, Limbhu and Abadhi. Hinduism is the widely accepted religion followed by Buddhism, islam and Christianity.

Palpa is the potential district for tourism development. The natural setting of this district is very beautiful. Palpa has diverse tourism product to sell to the tourists. However; the entire product has not yet been explored. Comparing this district with the neighboring tourist destination of Pokhara, geographically it holds ample opportunity to attract domestic as well as foreign tourist including Indians. The only difference is that, the former is well developed and has extended facility, whereas in Palpa, the facility is in family stage and many products still need to be explored. So to attract the potential market in a sustained way, many efforts has to be made on developing products and services suitable to both domestic and international market.

Nepali largest project “Kali-Gandaki” of 144 Mega watts is operated in the boarder of Plapa and Syangja district. The Aandikhola Project of about 4 Mega Watts is operated in the boarder of Plapa and Syangja district. The Tinau project of 1 Mega watt is running about 2km far from Butwal in Palpa district. For higher level education TribhubanMutilpal Campus has provided a remarkable number of bureaucrats, teachers and intellectuals for the country. The United Mission hospital was established in 2015 B.S which is famous not only in Nepal but also in Uttar Pradesh and Bihar of India. And “Lumbini Medical College and Research Centre” established in 2063-05-25 B.S which helps the not only the local people but also international medical student also.

4.2 Historical Background of Palpa

Magar are one of the ethnic groups of Nepal with their own language, culture and history, and are assumed to be the first settlers in this area. Around 600 years ago Nepal was divided in several small kingdoms hill states. In this region they were known as “BharaMagarat” Meeting the twelve regions of Magar. Today still the percentage of magar population in the district is very high.

During the invasions of Muslims into India numerous kings and clans escaped from there of the northern hill areas. In late 15th century they entered the Himalayan region. Some of them conquered the local kings and established their own states. The former Sen dyanasty of Palpa, founded by Rudra Sen, has its roots in those days. Under the region of his son, Mukunda Sen (1518-1553), the kingdom of Palpa reached its largest expansion and Tansen became its capital. The kingdom of Palpa spread as far as the Koshi River in the east, Gorakpur in the south and today’s gulmi and Kaski River in the west and north. Even Kathmandu valley though unsuccessfully, wasw attacked by Mukunda Sen. After ruling for thirty years he resigned and spent the rest of his life as a saint.

In 1806 after a lot of political unrest, the kingdom of Palpa, which up to then had been independent, was annexed into the kingdom of Nepal and was then administered by a governor, appointed from Kathmandu. Political changes in Nepal brought up changes in administration too. Today the head of Palpa district is the Chief District Officer (CDO) and Tansen is one of the municipality in Nepal.

4.3 Prospects of Village Tourism in Palpa District

Village tourism is defined as “Home Stay” where visitors live with individual host families in groups. This offers the visitors and opportunity to experiences the traditional culture and life style of the local people first hand. The concept of village tourism is sustainable tourism that is directly operated by, and for the benefits of the local community. Guests are accommodates largely in existing structures which typically are the guest bedroom kept by the householders for visiting family and friends. The advantages of this are twofold. Firstly, the appearance of the village is kept unchanged and secondly capital investment minimum, living in close proximity to the family gives the guests a feeling of being part of the community for the time that they are there. Most meals are taken with family or at least, in the family home. This avoids the need for restaurants to be built especially for tourists. The foods offered is also traditional and hygienically prepared the local manage activities inside and outside the village and it is during these activities that the group combines. Activities include short treks to other villages, mountain panorama views, sightseeing visit (river, agricultural areas) and visit to community sites.

Palpa district is a tourism potential area but it is being one way traffic main focused on the headquarters area (Tansen) and its surrounding tourism activities are based on sightseeing, adventures, and business in Tansen area. It has not really touched upon others areas where several VDCs and villages are waiting for villages based tourism plan. Palpa district villages yet have not been declared by Nepal government as the model tourist village. But the different villages of the district have potentiality to attract tourist with its extreme different appearance.

There are many magnificent villages such as Madan Pokhara, Tanhu, Argali, Chilangdi, Deula Archele etc. these can all be promoted from the tourist view point of village tourism economics.

4.4 Madan Pokhara as a village Tourism Destination

Madan Pokhara VDC is one of the Model VDCs of Nepal. This village is bounded by Telga, Masyam, Koldada, Keseni, Chirtungdhara, and Tansen municipalities. About 20% land of this VDC is located in Madi valley. It is known that this part of Madi valley is evergreen area. This shows the laborious character of the society. This VDC is situated 10 kilometers far from district headquarter, being a north-facing village, it is rich in water resources and productivity is higher than neighboring VDCs. The total population of village is about 8333(VDC record 2070/71), in this population male: 4048 and female: 4285. In this village total household is about 1344(VDC record 2070/71). In this village total differentially able person is 73, male: 33 and female: 40 (VDC record 2070/71). In this village Brahmin, Chettri, Magar, Newar, Gururng, Thakuri, are among the dominant. The BK Tailor, Kumal, is native and backward group. The religion of most the village.s is Hindu and festivals and religious activities are celebrated according to caste.

Madan Pokhara as a village tourism destination there is lots of potentialities; we can promote in many ways. We can promote to Madan Pokhara village in different perspectives like; for the Natural beauty, Agricultural, Cultural, Historical, Religious, and etc. The Main attractions of this village are Agro- farming, Community Radio, Community Forestry, Coffee, Bee- Farming, Fish-Farming, Dairy-Farming, Minerals especially in ward num. 4, Magari cultural especially in ward num. 1, KrishnaasthmiRathYatra in Ward num. 6, Andheri Falls in ward num. 9-1, Newari culture in ward num. 1, and etc.

Attraction:

The bowl shaped VDC encompasses the valley, mountain, forest and farmlands. The beauty of natural valley holds unique attraction in this mountain district. Similarity, this model village for community also holds Kalanki Devi temple in ward number-2, Devasthan and Mandabya Temple in ward number -6, and Shivalaya in ward number- 1, as the cultural attraction. Agricultural activities of the community are the major attraction of this VDC. Organic coffee, ginger, and other crops are cultivated in this VDC. The new attraction of this VDC is “Community Radio Madan Pokhara”, which is based on community.

Accessibility:

Madan Pokhara is linked with Siddhartha Rajmarg at Banstari from where the road stretchiness further north to Damkada. The road is graveled and covers a total distance of only 4km. however, within the village there is good road network linking almost all wards of the VDC.

Accommodation:

Home stay at Madan Pokhara village will be unique experiences. All accommodation; lodging and fooding are to be offered at the individual houses. Each host family can provide clean bed, toilet and a family dining room for the visistors. One can enjoy the evening with the host family living with them, eating traditional foods and sleeping at their usual clean bed, the choice for food is confined by local available product like plain rice (Dal, Bhat), Dhindo, KODO, Faper, local organic Coffee etc. visitors can observe local indoor rituals with host family and go on village walk to see the lifestyle, tradition customs of the people. The client can observe the river craftsmanship of the local Kami people and can buy a few weapons too. Villagers also provide some tea house shops for refreshment in the mini- market Damkada.

Amenities:

This village has telephone facilities, different three telephone lines distributed in this village for the purpose of public communication facility than other VDCs of Palpa district. There is one post office (AtririktaHulak) in this village community based FM Radio center serves villagers with local and national News and entertainment program.

4.5 Challenges/Problems of Village Tourism in Palpa District

With low level of overall development, Palpa district has a myriad of problems for tourism development. Low levels of infrastructure development are one of the major bottlenecks for tourism development. Most of the roads are temporary in condition and the settlements nearby roads are very dusty. Transportation facilities are not up to the tourist standards. There is no air connection with the capital or other major cities of the country. There is no prospect of developing air transport in the district at least in the near future mainly because of the difficult geographical location and low level of feasibility to run air transport service.

Degradation of environment and adverse effect on biodiversities is likely to have significant negative impact on eco-tourism. Even the local routes and trekking trails are not good enough to attract tourists.

There are very few hotels, restaurants and lodges to cater the demands of tourists. Most of the people in the rural settings are accustomed with the subsistence agriculture system. Thus development of entrepreneurship for village tourism is not that much easy. There are no trained and educated man powers in hotel and travel sector. As discussed

Earlier the level of human development in the district is considerably low. Moreover tendency of migration of the educated people to the city centers prevalent in the district. Only the dependent and uneducated populations stay in the district throughout the year.

There are lack of proper conservation and preservation of historical sites. Most of the old palace and temples are getting ruined day by day.

Tourism is yet to get priority in the district. There is no effective tourism unit in the local units of the government. Investment on tourism development is negligible. The linkages of tourism with other economic sectors is yet to be realized, recognized and established.

Imitation of urban life style both domestic as well as foreign has caused typical Nepali culture, life style and traditions tarnished and disappeared which is a very important requirement for the development of village tourism in the country. There is not a large deal with International tourist in this district. The main reason is lack of suitable infrastructure, like roads, hotels and communications etc. There is no institutional process and suitable marketing, promotion and protection mechanism of Historical, Religious and Tourist places.

All this shows that, Palpa District through full of potentials for rural tourism development with the application of various rural tourism models in different localities, reaping the tourism potentials is still a daunting task for all of us that demand genuine commitment, sizeable investment and tireless efforts on the part of the government, tourism entrepreneurs and the local people.

CHAPTER FIVE

PRESENTATION AND ANALYSIS OF DATA

This chapter basically analyzes the primary data collected in the field and attempts to fulfill the objectives of the study.

5.1 Result and Analysis of Survey of Local People

Selection of sample size population

The respondents were chosen from Madan Pokhara VDC. The questionnaire was distributed to the willing 40 people who were at the market area of Madan Pokhara VDC for a public gathering. The respondents were chosen randomly with the purposive sampling method i.e. the respondents should be at least 15 years and above. The reason behind selecting the sample purposively is to get thereliable answers from the respondents.

5.1.1 Representation of respondents as per their age group

Table No. 5.1 Age Group

Age group	Percentage of Respondents	No. of Respondents
15-24 years	20%	8
25-49 years	15%	6
50-64 years	45%	18
65 and above	20%	8

Source: Field survey2014

Table 5.1 reflects the selection of sample as per their age. The majority of the respondents belong to the age group 25-49 years that accounts to 45% where as 15% of respondents belonging to age group 50-64 years have lease representation in this research.

The data shows that the age group 25-49 years has less participation because this age group is called as the working age group and people from this age group denied responding because they have to work to earn their living. Thus, the age-group from 50-64 years which is supposed to be retired age responded much because of their free time.

5.1.2 Representation of respondents as per their gender

Graph No. 5.1: Gender distribution

Source: Field survey 2014

The graph no 5.1 reflects that the amount of male respondent (70%) is higher than female (30%). This is because at the public gathering, number of participants was dominated by male and more over female respondents were a little bit more reluctant to answer the questionnaire like male respondents.

5.1.3 Occupational distribution of the respondents

Table No. 5.2 Occupational distribution

Occupation	Percentage of Respondents	No. of Respondents
Farmer	40%	16
Student	30%	12
Teacher	15%	6
Trade	5%	2
Other	10%	4

Source: Field survey 2014

Table 5.2 shows that the majority of the people are engaged in agricultural. 40% of the respondents reported that they are farmers. 30% of the respondents are students, 15% of the respondents are teachers, 5% of the respondents were found to be engaged in Trade and 10% of the respondents are engaged in other activities like Radio Jockey and Research assistance.

Since, majority of population in Nepal is engaged in agriculture; it is quite obvious that the majority of respondents in the study are farmers. However, there are cases of engaged in double occupation like a local teacher is also a farmer. Thus, the main occupation of the respondent was noted as per the level of income from the activity, i.e only the occupation that pays high is noted as the major occupation..

5.1.4 Local People familiarizations with the term Tourism

Graph No. 5.2: Familiarizations with the Term Tourism

Source: Field survey 2014

The 80% respondents reported that they see the tourism as the benefiting things to the village. But those who were a little confused on this term were of higher age group. They neither were clear about the term nor have any positive response of the tourism to their village. This clearly indicates that the younger generation is more sensitive and enthusiastic towards tourism.

Table No. 5.3 Perception on Potentiality of Tourism

A lot	35%	14
Enough	20%	8
Little	35%	14
Don't know	10%	4

Source: Field survey 2014

The table 5.3 reflects that 35% of the respondents rated tourism have potentiality in their place. In contrast, 35% perceives the potentiality of tourism is little. For 20%, it is enough where as 10% reported of not being aware.

As mentioned earlier, the younger generation who have higher knowledge about tourism were very positive about the potentiality of the rural tourism in the area. 6.2 Conclusion

Thus the study is able to show that Madan Pokhara has basic infrastructure facilities for the visitors/ tourist, but some of them should be upgraded in an efficient way. The study is able to show that Madan Pokhara has potential to attract tourist in future. At present the income generation and employment opportunity from tourism is limited. Having potentiality the local people of Madan Pokhara village have not been able to get benefit from tourism. Income generation, employment opportunity from tourism isn't being encouraged by public and private sector. So it is necessary to make active participation of all local residents in this sector like Sirubari village (famous as community based village tourism). So community involvement and cooperation between people is special feature of village and rural tourism so that it is necessary to make active participation of all local people of Madan Pokhara in tourism sector which help to drive tourism activities in a sustainable way. The development of tourism has negatives as well as positive impacts upon the society but the local shall minimize the negative impacts and maximizes the positive impacts. Thus, we can say Madan Pokhara has wide and bright prospect of tourism development, which shall be actualized to increase the level of income of the locals.

6.3 Recommendation

In fact countries like Nepal where there has been little infrastructural development, particularly in the remote rural areas. Village/ rural tourism have helped to spread income and enrich the local economy. In Nepalese context Rural based tourism or village tourism leads to the dynamism in tourism industry. It concerns with all villages of Nepal. Most importantly tourism in Nepal has been one of the most important supporting featuring of Nepalese economy. Therefore tourism industry shall be developed in such a way that the national development and distribution of income shall satisfactory in order to avoid the future conflict away the different stratum of the Nepalese society. For that purpose the study of Madan Pokhara has provided us the following recommendations.

Policy:

-) Madan Pokhara has not developed necessary tourism development policy, master plan, program and promotion strategy etc. the domestic and international tourist wants to visit new place and feel new experience. Therefore it is necessary to think about the new concept to develop village tourism in this area. To develop village tourism the government and the local people should take responsibility.

Training:

-) To run village tourism successfully and smoothly, accommodation providers should have to receive formal training on tourism like training in hospitality, housekeeping, local tourist guide food preparation services and moreover English language to communicate with the visitors.
-) Similarly, there is lack of trained guide for the tourist who could define about the village of its natural and cultural attraction. So, among the villager some of them should be trained for the local guide.

Attraction:

-) Organizing Madan Pokhara festivals (Mahotsab), could promote the village as well as local products.
-) Revive the charm of festivals; especially youngster should be made aware of local festival and rituals which can be one of the main attractions for tourists.

-) The community based forest must be preserved and a collective effort must be done for the protection through a forestation program. This in turn will help to sustain favorable climate, natural habitation for the wildlife and scenic beauty of the area.
-) Local agricultural product coffee, ginger, vegetable etc should be promoted within village tourism. Such type of products could be provided to tourist as the local gift for the memory.

Accessibility:

-) Up gradation of the transport facility must be one of the top priorities for the tourism development in Madan Pokhara. The gravel main road from Nayapati to MadanPokhara should be paved.
-) Developing hiking route from Madan Pokhara to Tenaha village and back to Madan Pokhara.

Accommodation:

-) Since there are limited hotels in market area and tourism activities are running within that boundary. So that to make equal distribution of the revenue of tourism and to share the benefits within the villagers it is necessary to make participation of the members of the society, the 'home stay' concept is to be developed and extended to the near community like Magar Ghaun.

Amenities and Facilities:

-) Tourist should be ensuring about the security and peacefulness of the place.
-) Modern communication like Email, Fax, Internet facilities should be made accessible and more circuit of the telephone lines should be installed in minimum charge in future.
-) Moreover infrastructures like toilet and sanitation, safe drinking water and as well as should be developed in those communities. In this case the VDC must take a more active role to make funds available to develop the social infrastructures.
