

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background of the Study

Now a day, prime concern of every nation of the world is rapid economic development and Nepal is no exception to this ever-continuing process. Nepal aims sound economic system to upgrade living standard of people. Thus, a lot of money has to be spent to achieve maximum national goal. Thus, homestay tourism can contribute in the national economy. The study on homestay tourism can contribute the national economy as well as advantages groups. This study basically depends on the Bardiya district which is famous for heritages sites.

Bardiya district is located in Bheri zone of Mid-Western Development Region and it covers an area of 2025 square kilometer within latitude 28°07" N to 28°29"N and longitude 81°03"E to 81°41"E. Bardiya district is surrounded by Kailali district in the west, Banke in the east, Surkhet in the north and Uttar Pradesh of India in the south. The total population of the district is 412,339 comprising 203,283 (49.3%) male and 209,056 (50.7%) female. Subsistence agriculture farming, mainly traditional agriculture is the main source of occupation and livelihood of the majority of the population. Janaki Temple, Thakurdwara and Chisapani are the famous and holy pilgrimage place and homestay tourism place in this district (CBS, 2011).

The district is served by surface transport facilities linking the district with the national strategic road network through East West Highway. The network of feeder roads, district roads and village roads are increasing significantly in the district. However, district and village roads and postal roads are mostly in poor condition which requires upgrading/rehabilitation and proper maintenance.

Development activities are mainly dependent on the transport facilities available. Adequate roads network in any district is the key infrastructure for good transportation. Transport facilities help in developing access to rural-urban linkages; stimulate crop production and marketing activities. Road accessibility can reduce isolation; encourage availing public services and help to transfer technology. Road construction has been seen to bring about notable enthusiasm and visible changes in rural life. However, in the absence of rational criteria and professional guidelines, road constructions are carried out in an adhoc manner in many of the districts.

Different ethnic caste ijs found in Bardiya district. Majorities are Tharu. Similarly Bramin/Chetri, Madhesi and Dalit are found respectively. Actually all the caste is used communicating common Nepali language. In terms of language, Tharu are 51.63%, Nepali are 36.76%, Abadhi are 5.31%, Hindi are 3.64%, Urdu are 0.64% and others are 2.07%. Major festivals are celebrated Maghi, Dashain, Tihar, Phagupurnima, Sivaratri etc. Religion, Festivals and Caste. The household size of 6.42 and annual population growth rate of 2.76%. Average population density of district is 189 per sq. km. (CBS, 2011).

1.2 Statement of the Problem

Economic development is the prime concern of every nation of in the world. Underdeveloped countries are facing serious resource gap problem in the economic as well as social development. The various measures are adopted by the government to boost up revenue collection. One of the prime instruments to raise the government revenue is tourism sector. But there are many issues arising to effective implementation of homestay tourism policy. The homestay tourism policy and other similar policies in Nepal suffer from structural constraints with tremendous administration and procedural complexities envisaged in the existing of coordination lacks in the different government's ministry. Lack of proper information about places, political instability, currency exchange problem, lack of proper transportation, natural calamities creates problem in stay period in Nepal. The research questions to implement of homestay tourism policy are as follows:

- Does homestay tourism improve the socio-economic status of Tharu community in Bardiya district?
- Does homestay tourism can contribute the development of livelihood of Tharu community in Bardiya district?
- What are the problems and prospectus of homestay tourism in Dalla, in Bardiya district?

1.3 Objectives of the Study

The main objective of the study is to analyze the effectiveness and contribution of homestay tourism policy of Nepal. Other specific objectives of the study are listed below:

- ) To describe the socio-economic status of Tharu community in Bardiya district, ) To examine the homestay tourism contribution in the livelihood of Tharu people in Bardiya district.

) To study the problems and prospects of homestay Tourism in Dall,Thakurdara.

1.4 Significance of the Study

Tourism sector is the most popular sector to collection the foreign currency and improve the national economy. Nepal is rich in cultural as well as natural heritages for homestay tourism industry. However, in the context of Nepal implementation of homestay tourism policy and promotion program arises the various kinds of constraints. Homestay tourism is the most importance instrument for promoting the national heritage in the international communities. This study is focused on various problems faced by tourist and government to implement the different policy and plan and suggest some measures to solve the problem. This study provides a clear idea and knowledge those persons who are interested to know more about the possibility of homestay tourism in Nepal and who are confused about the homestay tourism.

1.5 Limitations of the Study

This study has some limitations. The limitations of this study are as follows:

- Due to the time and monetary constraints, this thesis only covers the Suryapatuwa – 4, Dalla, Thakurdwara.
- Findings of this study may not be applicable for all places of the country.

1.6 Organization of the Study

The first chapter introduces the background of the study. It also addresses the problem, objectives of the study, significance of the study. In chapter second, it focuses on the previous literature relating to the homestay tourism as well as regular tourism. In chapter third, it discusses about the methodology which is going to apply to find out the conclusion of this study. It involves the different tools, techniques, sources of data and other analytical tools. Chapter four analyses the data analysis and interpretation. It also discusses the problems and prospects relating to the homestay tourism in Bardiya district. Chapter five provides the impact of homestay tourism in Dalla. Chapter last concludes the summary of findings, conclusion and recommendations.

CHAPTER II

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

Literature review is one of the important parts of any research work. It is the study of previous documents books, journals, research reports, articles and different documents, reports to the subject while conducting this thesis work. The review of different literature will be done from different sources as documents journals, conference books and bulletins published by different instructions government; Nepal Tourism Board, journals and booklet of tourists guide association, district profile and Economic Survey of Ministry of Finance. The different books of different writes related to the subject will be reviewed.

2.1 Theoretical Review

2.1.1 International Review

Lowry (1994) has evaluated that the tourism is a service industry that takes care of visitors when they are away from home. Some restrict the definition of tourism by number of miles away from home, overnight stays in paid accommodations, or travel for the purpose of pleasure or leisure. Others think that travel and tourism should not even be referred to as an industry. Hunt and Layne (1991) acknowledge the problems of defining travel and tourism. They say that travel was the most accepted term until 1987 and since that time tourism is the accepted term used to "singularly describe the activity of people taking trips away from home and the industry which has developed in response to this activity". The evolved definition of Smith and Eadington (1992) simply states that "tourism is in fact a significant social institution".

Modi (2001) has illustrated that the travel for economic or religious reasons (e.g. to pilgrimage sites) is an ancient human activity as any one possess (Callimanopulos, 1982 & Fisher, 1986: 37). Pilgrimage is the opening of tourism in Nepal. Pilgrimage by Hindu and Buddhist saints to different parts of Nepal are examples. Poudel (2002) noted that, Fa Hein (403), Huen Sang (366) both from China visited Lumbini, which is very important. Religion has been a powerful force which has long caused people to travel to religious centers in many parts of the world. Travel to the ancient cities of Palestine and Christendom, Mecca, Medina and Bangkok is part of world folklore history. The root of tourism in Lumbini too is based on religious interest to the great extent i.e. religious tourism.

The author has also concluded that the Jakarta conference concluded that tourism employees, as culture brokers, play important roles at all levels: the private and public sectors and institutions must play informed roles in bringing tourism and the host culture into harmony; those sustainable forms of tourism without having accepted tourism itself. Tourism Studies in academic sector both in private and government sector have been started up to postgraduate degrees in Nepal. It justifies the need of experts in the tourism sector. Different festivals organized by different destinations like Pokhara Street Festival, 2003 etc, Baglung Festival, 2060, Sauraha year, 2060, Ghalegaon festival, 2003 and many others are the examples of the local peoples' interest in tourism promotion from both domestic and international importance which not only accelerates business activities but popularizes the identity of the place. It justifies the day by day increasing interest of people in tourism development around their area.

Clarke & Godfrey (2000) have described that the tourist is the central object in the tourism. It is the item that exerts a pull on the tourists from different areas. It is the one that motivates tourist to travel. Therefore the secret of destination is of prime importance that should never be undermined. First of all in tourism related studies a detailed listing of all resources which have some connection with tourism should be carried out. This is called Tourism resource audit. Such a resource inventory should include the following: What could a visitor see in this area which might be of interest? What are the different types of attractions they could visit? What types of services would they require? What different activities could they do during their stay? If staying overnight, what accommodations are available?

Okada (1969) has observed at various times in 1969 that most tourists, among whom were diplomats from two Southeast Asian countries, did not spend much more than an hour at the garden, arriving in the forenoon by car from India, possibly catering a basket lunch at the site, and departing hastily to reach suitable accommodations by night fall. So, it was the scenario of tourism in Lumbini, more than 3 decades prior to this study. It was due to the lack of basic accommodation infrastructures and moreover due to the visitors being diplomats who seek more comfort and obviously are busy on some other jobs. But today the enough carrying capacity and presence of new structures have facilitated to extend the duration of stay which is definitely a positive aspect of tourism in Lumbini.

Viet Burger (1978) has showed that tourism in Nepal was showed to be effective and promoting instrument for earning foreign exchange. To develop tourism in Nepal, it requires high public as well as private investment. So foreign exchange is needed for both development of tourism and other purpose.

Viet Burger suggest that tourism industry is generally believed to be labor intensive rather than capital intensive in developing countries like Nepal. It helps to generate additional income to the people of Nepal. But the assumption has not provided in Nepal.

2.1.2 National Review

Sharma (1976) has concluded that tourists have arrived in some form or the other from time immemorial in Nepal. In this context, first of all, it is pertinent to illustrate a legend. As far as the legend goes, „Manjushree“ had made the valley it for human habitation by cutting the Chovar Hill of Kathmandu Valley with his sword and thereby letting the water low out from within the valley.

The author has found that the historical evidence, after meeting King Harsabardhan of India, he returned to China via Nepal in 643. During his journey to Nepal, Huien-Tsang also visited Lumbini. The then Emperor of China is said to have sent his imperial envoys to India via Nepal in an attempt to strengthen the relations with King Harsabardhan of India. For example, in 643, Chinese envoy Li-Yi-Piao, came to Nepal via Lhasa and then visited India. Another Chinese envoy, Wang Hiuentse, frequently used to travel to and fro Nepal with his companions during 643-657 when he was envoy to India.

Satyal (1988) has mentioned that the Manjushree is said to have come either from India or China, yet he is regarded as the first tourist ever visiting Nepal. During the early historical era too, famous visitors have been recorded as having visited Nepal. It has been illustrated in the chronicle that Gautam Buddha visited Nepal during the reign of Jitedasti, the seventh Kirat King, who stayed in the western part, near Swayambhu. King Ashok visited Lumbini, the birth place of Lord Buddha, and built the Ashok Pillar there. He then came to Kathmandu valley and built similar pillars in different places. The Lichchhavi period started in 400. and there had been enormous progress of art and culture in the country during that period. In particular, architecture, paintings and sculpture were tremendously developed, while famous palaces like

KailashkutBhawan, Managrihaand BhadradhiwasBhawan etc., were also built during that period. The way in which art and culture were developing in Nepal during that period inspired the Chinese travelers to come to Nepal and write about Nepal.

Shakya (1994) has drawn the result, it was natural for the people of these countries to travel from one country to the other. Thereafter, Nepal was developed as the only route for a long period to visit China via Lhasa and travel from China to India via Lhasa. This led to the increase in arrivals of foreigners in Nepal.

Pradhan (1988) has studied the buddhism preachers and visitors of buddhism in Nepal during Lichchhavi period i.e. Shantarakshit in 742, Padma Sambhav in 474, Kamalsheel in 760, AtishaDipankar in 1040 and Milarepa in 1010.

Chhetri (2004) has discussed with the reign of the Mallas people from the western countries began coming to Nepal with an aim to spread and publicize Christianity. First of all Jao- Cabrall, a Portuguese, had entered Nepal via Bhutan with an aim to spread Christianity. Later, many Fathers came to Nepal with similar aims. Since 1737, King Jaya Prakash Malla provided written permission to Christians for the settlement and spreading of Christianity in Kantipur.

Satyal (1992) has described the Malla period too is of great significance in the Nepalese history. The Mallas ruled over Nepal from around 750-1480. A plethora of magnificent pagodas, palaces and houses reflect the richness of art and architecture during the Malla period. The Lichchhavis and the Mallas brought about total transformation in the life style of the people. The existing customs of the diverse ethnic groups and the various festivals celebrated round the year have their roots in the Lichchhavi and the Malla periods. Against this background, foreign tourists are found to have been attracted and visited Nepal from time immemorial.

During those days, foreign tourists visiting Nepal were Chinese, Tibetan and Indians and they used to visit Nepal especially with religious and commercial motives. Nepal was a famous pilgrimage for both the Chinese and Indians. The Chinese and Tibetan religious groups used to visit Lumbini, the birth place of Lord Buddha, while the Indian religious people used to visit holy places like PashupatiNath, BarahaKshetra, Muktinath, Gosainkunda, etc. Similarly, Nepalese traders used to go to Lhasa for business purposes and the Tibetan traders too are found to have come to Nepal in connection with their business activities. Thus, religious and trading sectors are found to have contributed significantly to the development of tourism in Nepal. Tourism after Unification of Nepal King Prithvinarayan Shah unified the scattered principalities into bigger Nepal in 1767, thus, giving a new dimension to travel and tourism in the country's perspective. In the history of tourism development of Nepal, the visit of Captain Kirk Patric Mission in 1792 to Nepal also seems important. Although Kirk Patrick had come to Nepal as a military official to collect facts about Nepal, his book about Nepal "An Account of the Kingdom of Nepal" helped to introduce Nepal to outsiders.

Gautam (1995) has found that the treaty of Sugauli between the Nepal Government and the British East India Company in 1816, a British Resident, Dr. Wallich, was appointed in Kathmandu for developing Nepal's relationship with British India. After this there were regular visits of British nationalities in Kathmandu. Rana Prime Minister Jung Bahadur's visit to Britain in 1850-51, brought the mysterious and fascinating Kingdom of Nepal into the limelight in Europe. During that time, several botanists and naturalists including Sir Brian Hodgson FRS, and Sir Joseph Hooker had visited Nepal. Renowned European personalities like Silva Levy during the reign of Prime Minister BirShumshere and Percival London, during the reign of Prime Minister Chandra Shumsher had visited Nepal. Similarly, King George-V and the Prince of Wales came to Nepal for hunting tigers in the terai forests in 1911 and 1921 respectively.

2.1.2.1 Tourism After 1950

Shakya (1994) has analyzed the advent of democracy in 1950, Nepal started to develop the different aspects of her social, economic and political life. Since that time, the door of Nepal has remained open to foreigners with the desire to visit Nepal in order to develop the tourist industry in the country. The role of mountain tourism is very significant in the overall tourism sector. In fact, tourism in Nepal began with mountain tourism. 1950s can be considered as the most important period in Nepal's tourism development. During the decade, of the world famous 14 over-8000m peaks 7 of the 8 over-8000m peaks in Nepal were for the first time successfully scaled i.e. Mt. Annapurna I, Mt. Everest, Mt. Cho Oyu, Mt. Makalu, Mt. Kanchenjunga, Mt. Manaslu, Mt. Lhotse, and Mt. Dhaulagiri in 1960 only. The first over- 8000m peak to be conquered was Annapurna I by Maurice Herzog and Louis Lachenal of France on June 3, 1950.

The author also discussed the world's highest peak Mount Sagarmatha (Everest) was successfully ascended by Tenzing Norgay Sherpa of Nepal and Sir Edmund Hillary of New Zealand on May 29, 1953. The first successful ascent of these two peaks did much to publicize Nepal as a destination to the world. The first successful ascent of the over-8000m peaks of Nepal led to an exceptional growth in mountaineering activities. With the granting of membership of the United Nations Organization (UNO) in 1955, Non-aligned Countries' Group since its very inception and the membership of different international agencies, it was easy for Nepal to be introduced in the world arena and in the same year, in 1955 world-renowned Thomas Cook and Sons brought a group of 60 tourists for a Nepal tour. These events contributed to the gradual influx of foreign tourists in Nepal.

Therefore, the need was felt for conducting tourism related activities in a systematic manner and tourism management became a necessity. During this period, Nepal made concrete efforts to develop homestay tourism. It created necessary institutional infrastructure needed to promote homestay tourism, beginning from the establishment of the Tourism Development Board in 1957 culminating to the establishment of Nepal Tourism Board in 1998. First of all, Tourism Development Board, the body to deal with tourism related works, was established under the Department of Industry, in 1957.

Later, in 1998, the Tourism Board was upgraded to the Department status, and the Tourism Department came under the Ministry of Construction and Communications and Transport. In 1959, Nepal joined the membership of International Union of Official Travel Organization (IUOTO), present name, World Tourism Organization (WTO), and Pacific Area Travel Association (PATA) in 1963. The number of foreign visitors to Nepal has been increasing at a rather high yearly rate since the entrance in these international organizations. The main factors for such substantial increase in the influx of the tourists were the intensive promotional activities, expansion of the homestay accommodations, development of modern banking system, the improved transport and communication facilities, increase in the touristic resorts and facilities and so on.

There was no plan and policy regarding tourism in Nepal till 1950s. For the first time the written study on tourism was made in late 1950s. In Nepal "General Plan for the Organization of Tourism of Nepal” prepared by French national, George Lebrec, in 1959, was the first tourism plan, which was prepared with the help of the French Government. In this plan, Lebrec has recommended to make brochures, posters, postage stamps depicting the Himalayan peaks and flora and fauna and to use films and documentaries prepared by the mountaineering expedition for promoting tourism in Nepal and the establishment of separate tourism offices.

Later, George Lebrec visited Nepal in 1964 and 1966 and presented two reports on tourism entitled “Report on the Development of Tourism” and “Report on Tourism in Nepal” respectively. In these reports Lebrec had recommended that tourism in Nepal had started growing at a faster pace (Shrestha, 2000: 47).

Later in 1965 Sir Eric Franklin from USA came to Nepal for the supervision of Tourism Department (Chhetri and Rayamajhi, 2061: 120). In 1962, for the first time the Tourism Department started keeping the statistics of the foreign tourists coming into Nepal. In 1967, Tourism Department came under the Ministry of Industry and Commerce. To facilitate and provide necessary information to the foreign tourists entering Nepal, the Tourism Department established information centers at Tribhuvan International Airport, Basantpur in Kathmandu, Bhairahawa, Birgunj, Kakarbhitta and Janakpur. With the loan assistance of the Asian Development Bank, the tourism Department established the Tourism Infrastructure Development Project, within the department, in Pokhara, Gorkha and Kathmandu.

2.2 Empirical Review

2.2.1 International Review

Dernoi (1988) has already practiced in France 1960’s by local farmers groups/communities to establish simple tourist accommodation, to help both the “village economy” and tourism development. This practice blossomed, in some instances in the 1970’s as village eclate” a village. Tourism in which much of the locality as well as the surrounding region participates a quasi-spontaneous format of community best tourism.

Jha (1999) has defined the useful tools for tourism managers looking to improve their tourism activities. There exists considerable managerial benefit in understanding the psychology of the trekkers, yet such understanding does not equal Pro-Environmental awareness. The finding must be converted to management actions, whether that is improving or redefining the present marketing and premonition programs with the proposed ideal type in mind; considering. The level of commercialization of trekking focusing on behavior based development theories rather than awareness based ones, or something completely different is Leif to be concluded upon.

Swarbrooke (2000) has mentioned that alternative tourist can be broadly defined as a form of ecotourism/village tourism that sets out to be consistent with natural ,social, and community values that contribute more conservation understanding, and appreciation of the environment and culture and also maximum satisfaction to both guests and hosts.

Bukrat&Medlik (1974) have suggested that the tourism society of Britain had also attempted to clarify the concept of tourism in 1976. It defined tourism as " the temporary short term movement of people to destinations outside the places where they normally live and work and their activities during the study at these destinations, it includes movement for all purposes, as well as day visits or excursion." In Bukrat and Medlik's words, "Tourism denotes the temporary and short term movements of the people to destination outside the place where they normally live and work and their activities at those destination".

Bhatia (1994) has included the definition a special category of persons who visit to a foreign country with a touristic aim for very short periods of not more than 24 hours, on "excursionists". An American economist Herman Von Schullard, Austrian economist has defined it as, "Tourism is the sum total of operators, mainly of an economic nature which directly relate to the entry, stay and movement of foreigners inside and outside a certain country, city or region". In this definition Herman has given emphasis to a two aspect to tourism such as economic aspects and different between domestic and international tourism. Likewise, 1937, The committee of Statistical Experts of the League of Nations, first proposed that a 'foreign tourist' is one who 'visits a country other than that in which he habitually lives for a period of at least twenty four hours'.

Bhatia (2002) has reviewed about the International Union of Official Travel Organization (IUOTO) now the World Tourism Organization, issued various definitions and recommendations during the auspicious occasion of UN Conference on International Travel and Tourism held at Rome Italy. It introduce the terms like 'visitor' to describe any person visiting a country other than in which he has his usual place of residence.

Pardhanang (2005) has mentioned that the tourism sector contributed 37.99 percent as direct expenditure. He has found that the direct import content was 33.49 percent in tourism sector, 17.34 percent in tourism related sector. The increase in tourist expenditure leads to increase in imports and this study, it was also further related that the tourist expenditure at current price increased from Rs. 170.6 million to Rs. 2128.9 million during 1974/88 which shows that the increase in foreign exchange. The tourist expenditure on products using local resources at current price were estimated Rs.

51.74 million in 1974/75 and Rs. 319.30 million in 1987/88 from 34.92 million in 1974/75 which indicates the domestic increase in the revenue.

2.2.2 National Review

Bhaju (1987) has analyzed the situation of tourist flow and its socio-economic impact in both the areas. The reports conclude that Nagarkot and Dhulikhel have a huge number of shelled and unshelled workers were employed in tourism except female.

Tuladhar (1993) has aimed to study the development of international tourism from view of resources, level of exploration and utilization and possibilities of its improvement to achieve the objectives of the study, a systematic method of investigation in the theoretical scheme was used. His main finding was. Tourism is a subjective phenomenon and equally valid in resource management. He has given various suggestions to promote primary and secondary markets that directly affect tourism demand. He has suggested to promote charter flights with RNAC by tours operators assuring the low travel cost, increasing expenditure for advertisement and publicity for the stimulation for tourist to Nepal, to provide more cultural shows and other types of suitable entertainment, to increase the length of stay of tourists and to increase their expenditure, to establish summer resort like suitable tourists homestays and villas on the banks of lakes and rivers, to develop the national concept and to develop human resources by emphasizing on tourism education (Shrestha, 2000:58-59).

Khanal (1995) has shown that the number of tourist visiting Sauraha 836 in 1974. This number has reached 58,994 in 1994. The number of tourist visiting Sauraha has increased by 164 percent, 128 percent, and 78 percent in 1975, 1976, and 1986 respectively. He also mentioned that the inflow of tourists to Sauraha has increased by 26 percent, 5 percent, and 2 percent in 1992, 1993 and 1994 respectively.

Kunwar (1997) had studied Recently a new concept, eco-tourism, is introduced in Nepal. The use of this concept is not unambiguous. In the past, several definitions of eco-tourism were given. The definitions vary from a description of nature tourism to a broader definition in which not only the activities of the tourists are involved but also the elements like the conservation of ecosystem and sustainable development are incorporated.

Nepal society for applied economics has recently published facts About Nepalese Economy (1998). A study in the title "Hotel and Tourism's shows that tourism in Nepal is one of the key sector along with only second to carpet and garment is terms of the exchange earnings. Because of the beauty of the natural beauty, she is best bestowed with; Nepal has been the home for many lover of nature. The location of the world's highest peak on the top of the Himalayas and the road to it via Nepal had been an everlasting source of earning foreign currency.

Shrestha (1997) has stated that tourism industry plays a very important role. It is one of the important sources of foreign exchange with its multiple effects. He has also demonstrated that tourists arrivals in Nepal has been increasing day by day and more than 88 percent of total tourist visiting Kathmandu valley were by air. He has concluded that the future of tourism in Nepal is closely linked with RNAC's expansion programmed as well as air transportation.

Ghimire (1999) has shown that the number of tourist's arrival has continued to increase in absolute terms. He has mentioned that water resources, tourism and human resources are three pertinent areas, which could give a new lease of life to the Nepalese economy. He has also found that 58 percent of tourists were found to stay only 2 days and 3 percent tourist were found to stay more than five days.

Shrestha (2000) has noticed the outlines the need to set up marketing efforts for the development of tourism in the country. As marketing is the prime motivator for attracting greater number of tourists, the writer has taken painstaking efforts in identifying the marketing requirement, the present status, problems and suggestions for the development to tourism in Nepal.

The Author has traced the historical development of tourism in Nepal which has been colorful despite the problems faced in the early days especially with the lack of infrastructure. The writer has also identified the tourism product and the existing infrastructure in Nepal. Moreover, the contribution of tourism to the country and its economy and the present trend of tourism marketing and promotional efforts too have come under comprehensive review.

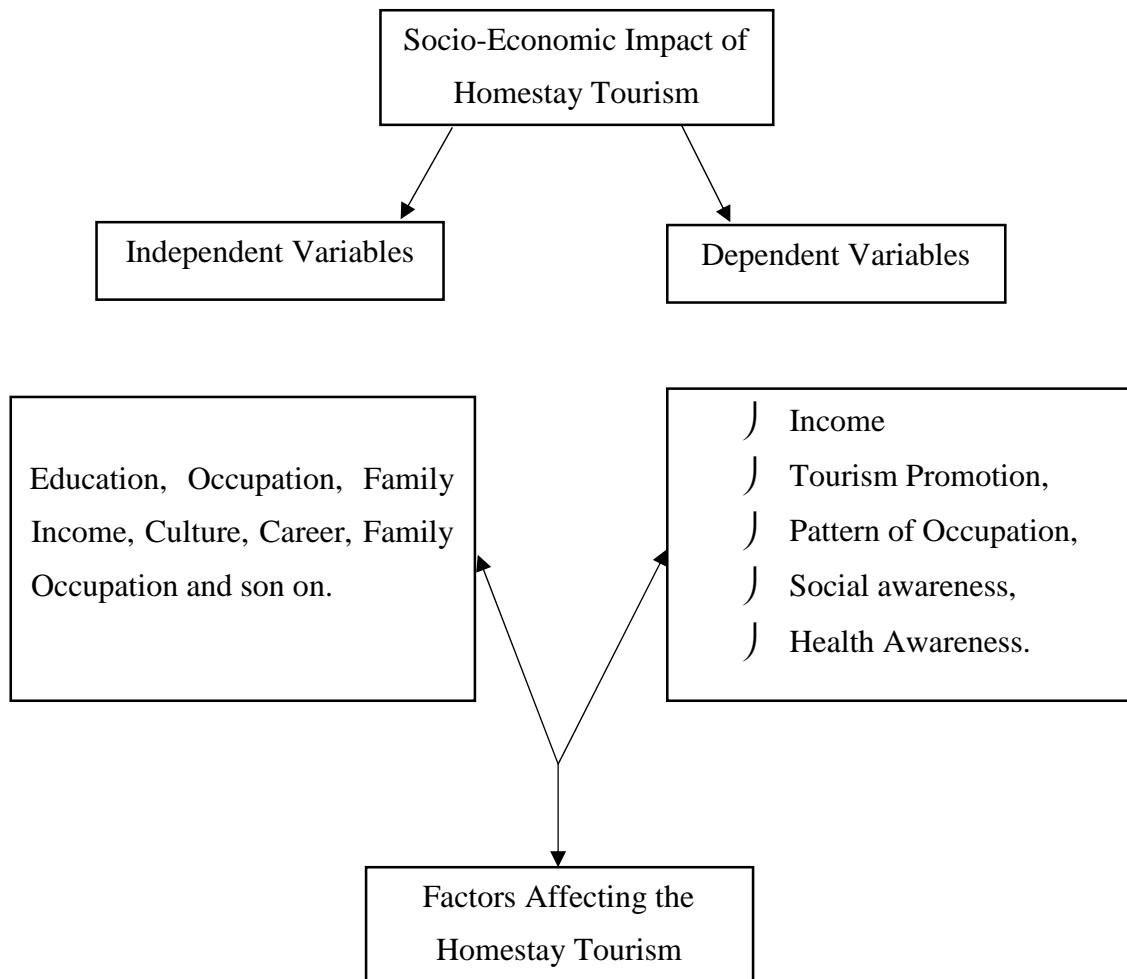

The Author also further suggests that Nepal must overcome its problems on a systematic and time-bound basis. Lack of co-ordination between the Government and the private sector seems to be one of the major factors that retard the growth of tourism in Nepal. Similarly, problems of inadequacy of access to the country, growing environmental problems, especially in the Kathmandu valley and poor preservation and development of tourist resources have to purpose fully addressed in order to preserve the mystique of the world's most cherished tourist destination.

Upadhyaya (2005) has posted that there is positive impact of tourism on economy of Nepal. It is also observed that it is established as one of the important sector of Nepalese Economy. Its contribution to GDP, foreign exchange earnings, revenue to government and employment generation is increasingly. The present trend of tourism development does not seem to be satisfactory despite the effort of government and private sector. Tourism has helped to promote contacts between the people of Nepal and other countries. This phenomenon has helped to bring changes in the urban and rural life of Nepalese people. Environmental issue is one of the most concerned issue about tourism in Nepal, because most environment of Himalayan mountains and hills. Thus, efforts should be to minimize negative effects of tourism on cultural and environment and to maximize its positive effects for the development of the economy.

The author has included farm based holidays, eco-tourism, walking, climbing and tiding, adventure, sports, health tourism, hunting, fishing educational arts and heritage tourism and ethic tourism. In this article, he states the main objectives of the rural tourism like; to achieve maximum human welfare and happiness, through sustainable socio-economic development of rural area, to reduce regional inequality and economic disparities and to contribute millennium development goals. He concludes that rural tourism is Nepal's oil and key for poverty alleviation, Likewise, he has recommended to government, Tara Gaon Development Board, public private and cooperative sector to pay their attention in time to develop rural tourism in Nepal.

2.3 Conceptual Framework

Based on the theoretical as well as empirical study of available literature the conceptual framework for this study has been made. On the basis of above variables the situation of early and late marriage practice study area has been studied. The conceptual framework of the study is given below:

2.4 Research Gap

Many research works have been conducted in the field of tourism industry. Plenty of research work conducted in the tourism sector. But in Nepal, there is high potential in homestay tourism which can significantly change the lifestyle of any community people. This concept is directly benefited to the users' group. This study provides the knowledge regarding the homestay tourism and its significant change in community life of the Tharu community. So, the researcher has tried to analyze the socioeconomic status of Tharu community homestay tourism.

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

The nature of study is descriptive as well as analytical. To fulfill the objectives, data have been collected from primary as well as secondary sources. Procedure of collecting data has been given below.

3.2.1 Primary Data

Primary data are the first information taken from resource for special use. Sources of primary data of this study collected by the responsive sample of person from various. Sectors which has been collected through the structure questionnaire, personal contact as well as interview was also conduct to perform research work.

3.2.2 Secondary Data

The secondary data has been collected from the relevant sources as published or unpublished written documents, books articles, magazines, booklets, newspapers and annual report.

3.2.3 Universe and Sample Size

In socio-cultural sector, it helps to develop the infrastructure like road, electricity, water supply, health, education and telecommunication and brings changes in living standard of people, behaviour pattern of peoples, dress, life style, language and food habit.

Homestay tourism brings changes in people's ideas, behaviour pattern, norms, expectations and other manifestation of material and non-material culture, economically, it helps to improve the economic condition of the local people in community directly and indirectly by providing the foreign exchange earning, income generation, creation of employment. Instead of these negative impacts, it encourages ecological awareness, conservation measure and awareness of sanitation to the people. Figure: 5.1

Positive Impact of Tourism in the Study

Negative Impact of Tourism in the Study

4.7 Social Impact

4.7.1 Contribution in Development Infrastructure and Improvement of Living Standard

Homestay tourism is not only a source of earning money and foreign exchange, it also plays a key role in generation of infrastructure development in this area. The road, Bridge education health and drinking water, Buspark are the main infrastructure for the development in village level. In the study area, homestay tourism also has played important role to develop these infrastructure development. The main is fund collected for infrastructure repaired and built from the Homestay owner & foreign organization & individual foreign Tourist. It has helped to improve in the local life style of people. The dress pattern, food habit, education and others things related to human beings are becoming quality and standard. It means that, the low standard lifestyles local people are strong and visible.

4.7.2 Changes in Family Structure of Social Relation

Agriculture being the main occupation most of the families are based on the joint family. But some joint families that are involved in homestay tourism are now changed as the nuclear family. Homestay tourism has maintained good social relationship with the western people who provide the opportunity to know western society and culture. The local people of the study area have good friendship with different countries people like Japan, Britain, America, Germany and other countries. Due to friendship, some local people have got a chance to visit Europe. The marriage is the main backbone of the social relations. According to the field survey three foreign men have married with Nepali women & two foreign women have married with Nepali men & they have well settle in this study area.

4.7.3 Changes in the Settlement Pattern

Homestay tourism has brought changes in the settlement pattern and helped to control the migration in the study area. The settlement of people is closed where homestay and home tourism are built. Most of house are being constructed with modern style and use cement, stone, rods with facilities of the sleeping rooms, toilets and bathrooms. Newly constructed homestays, home tourism, restaurant and residential houses are constructed in the modern style. In terms of migration, the people of the study area are getting good opportunity to earn money due to the homestay tourism.

So they don't want to leave their area. But the people of other areas where homestay tourism has not impacted are migrated to city areas in search of earning sources by selling their ancestors properties, handicrafts, woodcrafts, stone crafts etc.

4.8 Cultural Impact

4.8.1 Preservation of cultural Heritages

The local people in the study area are very careful towards their native culture and traditions. The traditional customs (birth, marriage, death ceremonies) religion cultural behaviours, folklore, languages, dress pattern and indigenous art are the cultural heritages of the study area. Homestay tourism is promoting and preserving these. In the study area, it has played a significant role to preserve the folk culture (dancing and singing) than other cultural heritages. The youths present the folk culture when tourists come on village. They dance and sing with traditional dress. Tourists are interested to stay in the traditional type of homestays. Some old homestays, which are decorated with Tharu style. So, the local people who want to be involved in homestay business are attracted towards traditional types of homestay construction. Sometimes, tourists by traditional Tharu dress, other ornaments and many kind of handy craft. On the one hand, it has preserved the traditional local culture and the other hand it has helped to improve the economic condition of the local people.

4.8.2 Religion

As far as the Tharu religion is concerned they believe in supernatural forces. They have several deities associating with home, forest and some different material cultures. Gana and Tripura are revered by every Tharus as home deities. The anthropomorphic deities are installed either inside or outside their home. One of the major attributes of their religion is Baramthan, located outside the village. The Bramthan also compresses several deities. When they celebrate their festivals or on every occasion, they worship their home deities and go to the Bramthan as well. While worshipping the deities, they invite their priest known as Guruwa especially, they worship the god and goddess named Gana, Tripur, Bana Devi, Baramthan, Banjarabin etc.

The Tharus had strong belief in their religion till before the in production of homestay tourism in Dalla, Thakurdwara. Being the forest dwellers, they had to face several problems. Some time they had epidemic their cattle were attacked by wild animals.

In order to solve those problems they had to depend on the guruwa or faith-healer and sorcerer, actually, they were not so busy in the past, so they spent lot of time worshipping their deities but nowadays they don't have more time to spent on all those process because they are busy in their profession as room boy, gardener, naturalists, homestay owner etc. But after the homestay tourism was introduced in Bardiya and the forest was declared as park, urbanization also occurred in Bardiya and consequently several schools as well as modern hospital and health post were established in different villages of Bardiya. And the institution of guruwa is getting weaker in power and when they need to help the guruwa they consult with the doctor and nurse instead of guruwa. It reveals that homestay tourism is not directly responsible to bring about the change in the society. Besides, it can be said that modernization and urbanization motivate the local people to change their traditional beliefs.

They had observed different kinds of colorful festivals in the study area. Especially they had observed PitriAusi, Jitiya, Pawani, Yamasha, Budhawa, Yatawar, Soharai, BarchoEkadasi, ChaityaNawmi etc., but it doesnot mean that all these festivals have been ignored, they also observe these festivals. But it is found that there is being changed in the process of observing the festivals. Before introduction of homestay tourism in Dalla, Thakurdwara, the people were busy in agriculture and animal husbandry, so they had more time to spend for observing the festivals but nowadays most people of the Dalla, Thakurdwara are involved in homestay tourism industry directly or indirectly, so they are of the opinion that it wastes their time thus they do not want to spend their valuable time in the celebration of festivals. Previously, they celebrated their festivals with long process but gradually they started to observe the festivals in short for instances, soharahi is the festival which was observed for three days involved by both man and woman but these days only women are seen in observing the festival due to the time constraints. ## 5.2 Conclusion

Nepal is a small land-locked republican country in the central part of Asia. It is famous for its long chain of Himalayas, green mountains traditional arts and architecture and the various national parks having varieties of flora and fauna in the lap Panoramic natural sceneries. The traditional unique cultures of various ethnic groups settled in different ecological zones are the other factors to attract tourists in the country.

Bardiya National Park is listed as an important National Park of Asia. Dalla, Thakurdwara is not very far from Kathmandu. It is also key point for the tourists visiting Nepal. Dalla, Thakurdwara famous to see wild animals for its peaceful environment, boat and elephant riding, bird watching, canoeing, jungle drive and natural walk, which are the main tourist activities in Dalla, Thakurdwara.

The history of homestay tourism in Dalla, Thakurdwara is relatively short. Homestay tourism was developing in after the Bardiya National Park was listed as an important National Park of Asia. The tourists started to arrive in Dalla, Thakurdwara. The inflow of tourists in Dalla, Thakurdwara has been increasing which is a good symptom for homestay tourism development.

Such a conclusion may at first seem to convey an optimism confidence that on a local level, homestay tourism is secure, unproblematic and wholly advantages to the local community. However, we should say that Dalla, Thakurdwara's homestay tourism has enormous potential, and though have made clear that its 'culture' cannot be seen to be under threat from consumption by the luring and dominating ties of the modern world, we would also assert that as yet, it never the less remains fragile and insecure.

The assertion is perhaps difficult to justify when we look at the booming numbers of tourists, years. It appears that Bardiya is still able to fulfill expectations of wildlife and rural culture. It sustains its evidently secure niche as the second of Nepal's homestay tourism sector and in addition to this, the government continuous to promote homestay tourism. Likewise, the researcher has found that although they have changed themselves in different sectors as mentioned in previous chapter, yet it can be still observed their tradition life style, traditional arbiters, rites and rituals, norms and values.

In sum, it is also observed that homestay tourism has contributed a lot in raising the awareness among the communities on the need and rational of preserving their traditional culture, value, norms and heritage. It is found that tourists visit Dalla, Thakurdwara not to experience western way of life. But to see and feel the indigenous kind of culture. It is obvious that on one hand had trivialized the local culture as mentioned in previous chapter whiles on helped significantly in preserving and revitalizing the local culture.

The land value has increased with the growth of homestay tourism. Due to this the local people have found employment in the homestay tourism sector thus they foresee a good future for homestay tourism in Dalla, Thakurdwara. In other side, adverse effects on the locality have been noted too like prostitution, foreign culture effects etc. noise pollution due to the vehicle from jungle drives and presence of hotels inside the park is not helping in these matters as well as Dalla, Thakurdwara looks a central authority to impose regulation and limits on the strategies of those involved in tourist business, the distribution of the fruits of trade with tourists remains unchanged. Homestay tourism in Dalla, Thakurdwara must have a secure market and must also be managed so as to benefit the wider community and generate local wealth.

Unfortunately owing to a number of constraints the rate of increase of the tourists arriving in Nepal is not a high as it should have been from the very beginning. Most of the attractive place of the country are still in shadow as they have not seen the light of development. People in the rural areas are gradually giving up their indigenous life style and culture which is valued so highly new in the developed part of the world and adopting the expensive and what immoral urban culture.

The government policies are neither appropriate nor effective for the preservation of traditional indigenous culture. The government is also not paying enough attention for the infrastructural development of the tourist sports. If all the attractive place of the country were to be developed for the homestay tourism retaining the traditional indigenous culture of the people living around them, these places could contribute more earning than what the country is annually making now. So the highest emphasis should be given for the development of homestay tourism with the preservation of traditional culture natural beauty.
