DEDICATION

Dedicated

to

My Parents, Gurus/ Gurumas and Seniors whose blessing is always with me.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am profoundly indebted to my thesis supervisor Ms Madhu Neupane, Lecturer, Department of English Education, TU, Kirtipur for her continuous guidance, enlightening ideas and invaluable suggestions. Her encouragement, cooperation and practical support from the very beginning of the study lead me in the right path during my research work.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my respected Guru Dr. Chandreshwar Mishra, Professor and Head of the Department of English Education, TU, Kirtipur for his valuable suggestions and encouragement.

I owe much to my respected Guruma, Dr. Anjana Bhattarai, Professor, Department of English Education, TU, Kirtipur for providing me with first hand theoretical knowledge on research methodology and her support in carrying out this research successfully.

I am equally thankful to all the members of the Department of English Education for providing me with academic supports during my academic years. Ms Madhavi Khanal, the librarian in the Department, deserves a lot of thanks for providing me with necessary books in course of carrying out this research.

I feel pleasure to express my special thanks to all the teachers of the selected colleges of Morang District who helped me while collecting the data.

Finally, I would like to remember my inspiring and encouraging parents for providing me with every support to come to this position. My special thanks go to my loving brothers for creating a favorable home environment during my study. And all my well wishers who directly or indirectly helped me accomplish this study also deserve special thanks from the bottom of my heart.

ABSTRACT

This research work entitled “Existence and Need of Mentoring for Professional Development of Teachers” has been carried out to identify the need and practices of mentoring for professional development of teachers. For the research study the primary data were collected from the thirty English language teachers who are teaching in the colleges of Morang District by applying non-random purposive sampling procedure. The data obtained from the respondents through the questionnaire have been analyzed and interpreted using simple statistical tools. The study shows that almost all the English language teachers of different colleges of Morang District have positive attitudes towards need and practices of mentoring for professional development of teachers. In spite of their positive attitude, they have not been involved in any mentoring activities yet. No institutions under my study had formal system of mentoring too.

This thesis includes four chapters. Chapter one deals with general background on teachers’ professional development and mentoring, literature review, objectives of the study and the significance of the study. Chapter two deals with the procedure adopted to carry out the research. It contains information on the primary and secondary sources of data, sampling procedure, tools, procedures of data collection and limitations of the study. Similarly, chapter three, which is the core part of the study, consists of the analysis and interpretation of the data. Chapter four deals with the major findings of the study derived on the basis of the analysis and interpretation of the collected data. It also presents some recommendations based on the major findings of the study. References and appendices form the concluding part of this thesis.
