ACKNOWLEDGMENT

It would not have been possible to write this thesis without the help and support of the kind people around me. Foremost I offer my deep and sincerest gratitude to my supervisor, Mr. Bala Ram Acharya, lecturer at Central Department of Sociology Tribhuvan University, who had supported me throughout my thesis with his patience and knowledge. His guidance helped me in all the time of research and writing of this thesis with full encouragement and insightful comments. My heartfelt thanks for his better guidance and constructive suggestions throughout my work and managing the valuable time for completing my thesis. I would also like to thank Prof. Dr. Om Gurung (Head of the Department) for allowing, encouraging and supporting me to carry out this thesis work. The great thanks to all faculty members for their technical contribution to make this thesis research more meaningful.

In particular, I am grateful to all the respondents who provide me their valuable time during the information/data collection period. My work would never be at the end without the tangible supports of all the respondents

Last but not the least; my whole-hearted obligation goes to my family, relatives, colleagues, friends and all the well-wishers for helping and providing me with the moral and inspirational support. And also my brother for supporting and encouraging me to complete the thesis work.
