Acknowledgement

All the successful attempts are the result of contribution of some co-operative hands. A number of individuals has helped and encouraged me in various ways in completing this study. Though I may not be able to mention the names of all of them, here I wish to express my special gratitude to the following individuals.

I would like to thank the women domestic workers of Kirtipur who created time out of their busy schedules and put aside their numerous challenges to provide the useful information on this grey area. Without their corporation, this report would have not been realized.

I would like to express my profound gratitude and sincere thank to my supervisor and teacher Dr. Tika Ram Gautam, Department of Sociology, Tribhuvan University, Central Campus Kirtipur, who despite his heavy schedule provides constructive comments, suggestions and encouragement for the preparation of this dissertations to me. I would like thank to Dr. Tulasi Ram Pande Head of the Department of Sociology.

I would also like to express my gratitude to my family members for the love and support they have given me.
