ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First of all, I would like to thank very much to all of them who helped and supported me with their knowledge and encouragement to complete my research work.

I wish here to express my sincere gratitude to my respected teacher and supervisor Dr. Laya Parsad Uprety for his valuable contribution. Without his careful, sensitive and helpful supervision from the initial stage of writing the dissertation, my study would not have come out in the present shape. I would also like to thank Dr. Om Prasad Gurung the Head of the Department, and members of the dissertation committee and external examiner Dr. Ram Bahadur Chhetri for their constructive comments and suggestions, and all my other respected teachers of Central Department of Sociology / Anthropology for their continuous support.

I would like to thank all the Yakkhas of the Tamafok for their co-operation in their homes and village. I would specially like to thank Mr. Magman Linkha Yakkha, Miss Kamala Linkha Yakkha, and Mr. Mohan Kumar Khamyong Yakkha for their excellent research assistance. I am also most grateful to Mrs. Bim Maya Linkha, Mr. Dik BAhadur Linkha and Mr. Lachhman Linkha for their warm hospitality. I am also thankful to Mr. Dammar Linkha and Mr. Man Kumar Linkha for their help. I would like to thank my friend Miss. Chandrawati Gurung who helped me a lot by editing my dissertation.

Finally, I would like to thank my family for the arrangement of financial support. And my thanks go to my close friends for their help and suggestions to write this dissertation.

Arjun Rai (Yakkha)
