ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It has been great opportunity for me to implement my learning by completing this thesis at MBS level. This thesis is the result of the continuous effort and helps many persons in different ways.

I am deeply indebted to my respected teacher and supervisor Mr. Bal Krishna Shrestha, Lecturer at United College, Kumaripati for his guidance that enabled me to bring this dissertation to its present form. This work would not have been materialized without his incisive observation, intellectual direction and constructive guidance.

I am also grateful to the librarians of United College, T.U and members of Security Board Nepal who helped me by providing necessary books, articles and other materials.

I thank to the staffs of Nepal Investment Bank Ltd. for providing me the necessary data without which this thesis would not be presented as the partial fulfillment of the requirement for the Masters Degree in Business Studies.

Last but not the least, I would like to thank the persons of different sectors who helped me a lot by getting involved in this thesis directly or indirectly.
