ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This research work has been completed as per the requirement for the degree in Master's of Business Studies by Faculty of Management. The main objective of this study is to make a comparative study of selected commercial banks. This thesis has come in this shape not by my single effort but the contribution of many individual and institutions. I am especially indebted to Professor Dr. Hem raj Pant, Campus Chief of Kailai Multipel Campus, thesis supervisor Dr. Padam Raj Joshi and Keshav Raj Bhatta, lecturer of finance for their valuable guidance co-operation and sustained interest despite of their busy schedules.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to Kailali Multiple Campus, for providing me an opportunity to work over this topic.

I would like thank to Nepal Stock Exchange, Nepal Raster Bank and selected Bank in this study, which provide sources of data and other information of this study.

Similarly, I am very thankful to all concerned teacher and library staff of Kailali Multiple Campus for their suggestion at different time. I am also very grateful to my family member for their prolonged support and encouragement during my study.
