CHAPTER ONE

INTRODUCTION

1.1 General Introduction

Language is primarily a means of communication. It is one of the most widely used means of communication. There are other means of communication too, olfactory system of communication, gustatory system of communication, tactile, etc. But these systems are not as developed as language. There are thousands of languages in the world. These languages are the tools for human beings to communicate with each other.

A language or a variety of a language is a code which can be used to refer to any kind of system that two or more people employ for communication. People are always faced with code choices when they speak on a particular occasion. When you open your mouth, you must choose a particular language, dialect, style, register or variety that is, a particular code (wardhaugh, 1986: 86). Language is essentially a code used to communicate between human beings. The codes human beings use may be linguistic or non linguistic. If language is a linguistic code bodily gestures or movements, is a non linguist code. The present study is related to the linguistic code. Code, which is also termed and described earlier as language, is a system of human communication and through it, human beings express their thoughts, feelings, emotions, etc.

A code is a system of communication. Richards et al (1985:2) say, "code is a system of signals, which can be used for sending a message. A natural language is an example of a code and the medium through which a code is sent is called channel" Likewise, wardhangh (198:99). Says "The particular dialect or language one chooses to use on any occasion is a code, a system used for communication between two or more parties." So, in communication there must be at least code.

There are many languages in the world. Among them no language can be thought to be superior or inferior to other languages in terms of communicative values. However, some languages play more dominant role in a particular situation. For example, English is the most widely used language in the world and it is accepted as a lingua franca that now has made international communication possible. English vocab is about two million words and it is claimed that one in every seven people can speak English. Half of the books have been written so far. Its literature is regarded as the richest one in the world. In this way, English is the most dominant language in almost all areas, e.g. international diplomacy, foreign mission, mass media, world politics, organization and son on. It is used as the link language for people belonging to different speech communities world wide. So, English has become the medium of global communication.

In the context of Nepal, the English language was started to be taught in school level in 1853 with the establishment of Darbar High School by first Rana Prime-minister Janga Bahadur Rana.

Then it was introduced at higher level in 1918 with the establishment of Tri-chandra college. Since the implementation of the NESP in 1971, English language was introduced from class four as a compulsory subject upto Bachelor level and in 2003 from class one as well. Now, it has gained an important place in both governmental and non governmental sectors in Nepal. In the context of Nepal English plays vital role to establish effective channel of communication with such organizations (UN, SAARC, BIMSETC) and other nations to enhance the tourism industry. In this way, the knowledge of English has become obligatory in the modern world.

Due to the growing effects of English language in every sector, people are compelled to use it directly or indirectly specially, educated and urban people use it in their speech and writing in Nepal. Sometimes they speak and write pure English language but other times they mix English words and sentences knowingly and unknowingly even when they speak and write Nepali language. This is one of the characteristic features of the present bilingual and multilingual society.

1.2 Code-switching and code-mixing

In this modern world, bilingualism or multilingualism is the norm for many people rather than unilingualism. People are usually forced to select a particular code to switch from one code to another or mix two codes together. If the shift from one code to another is absolute, it is code-switching and if switch is in the middle of the sentences (lexicon shift) then it is code-mixing. So, it is a usually phenomenon in this present society.

1.2.1 Code-switching

In Wordhaugh's (1986:102-3) words, "we can describe two kinds of code-switching: situational and metaphorical. Situational code-switching occurs when the languages used change according to the situations in which the conversants find themselves. They speak one language in one situation and another in a different one. No topic change is involved when a change of topic requires a change in the language used we have metaphorical codeswitching."

1.2.2 Code-mixing

Code-mixing is a usual phenomenon in bilingual and multilingual society. People speak mixing the languages in such society. When a person uses the structure of one language and some lexical items or elements of another language, it is called Code-mixing. If one uses a language and mixes words, phrases and sentences, from another language, it is called Code-mixing (Verma and Krishnaswamy, 1998:18).

Wardhaugh (1986:103) calls it code-mixing since the code is not changed entirely from one to another but the elements of one code are mixed into the other. Mostly the news of one language are mixed into another language. Hudson (190:53) says, "the purpose of code-mixing seems to be to symbolize a somewhat ambiguous situation for which neither language on its own would be quite right. To get the right effect the speakers balance the two languages against each other as a kind of linguistic cocktail-a few words of one language, then a few words of the other, then back to the first for a few more words and so on. The changes generally take place more or less randomly as far as subject matter is concerned." For example Rejendra le tin hazzar steeple-chase ma pani shabaghi hudaichhan.

Passport chhapmai galtibhyo.

Dipayalma dalitko hotal sanchalan.

So, code-mixing can be found every where today. Because of the rapid development of science and technology, commerce and communication many societies are coming in contact with other society. People use a lot of English words when they speak and write in their day to day life. It becomes the automatic habit of using the words of another language and become a part of life. None of the fields is free from this present issue.

Use of Englsih lexicons in the Nepali language is quite common in the field of mass media, especially on print media: newspaper. This study is mainly concentrated on the English codemixing that are mixed in the governmental newspaper 'The Gorkhapatra Daily' and the non-governmental 'The Kantipur Daily'.

1.2.3 Difference between Code-Switching and Code-Mixing

The difference between code-switching and code-mixing can be summarized as follows:

	Code-Switching		Code-Mixing
1	A change from one	1	The use of elements, most language to another in the		typically nouns from one language same conversation.		in an utterance pre-dominantly in another language.
2	Absolute shift, eg ma	2	Lexical shift, eg Kushale SAG ma
	birami chhu. So I do not		swarna Jite.
	come to your birthday party.
3	Conditioned by situation	3	Irrelevant of situation and topic
	and topic change.		change.

1.2.4 Factors leading to code-switching and code-mixing

The existence of multiple languages is the obvious reason behind shifting from one language to another. Nevertheless absolute shifting and partial shifting have specific reasons behind them. Such as, solidarity of the listener and addressee, linguistic complexity, choice of the topics, perceived social cultural distance (Hudson: 1980). It is also believed that some topics are so complex that they can not be explained in Nepali. So the speakers switch over the English or they mix English code to clarify the meaning. This happens mostly when we talk and write about the scientific and English subject matter. People also mix the word to show their social hierarchy because they think that English is a prestigious language and the sign of intellectual and elite class.

1.3 Journalism: An Introduction

Journalism is the process of collecting facts and writing for public. It is a tool of communicating news and information through newspapers, magazines, periodicals and broadcasting. It is concerned with the dissemination of news and views about the society which involves the work of collection, writing, editing and publishing information.

In modern societies, journalism has become the media of mass education which provides the education to students of all stage and to the general masses. The first and foremost concern of journalism is to broadcast news, while the primary function of newspaper is to communicate to the human race what its members do, feel and think. The term journalism embraces all the forms in which and through which the news and the comments on the news reach to the public. All that happens in the world, if such happenings hold interest for the public, all the thought, action and ideas which these happenings stimulate become the basic material for the journalism. (Astor 1992:2) in Bhattrai (2055:100)

According to Encyclopedia Britannica (2005: 201) "Journalism is the collection, preparation and distribution of news and related commentary and feature materials through media such as pamphlets, news letter, newspapers, magazines, radio, film, television and books. The term was originally applied to the reportage of current events in printed form, specially newspapers, but in the late 20th century it came to include electronic media as well. It is sometimes used to refer to writing characterized by a direct presentation of facts or description of events without an attempt at interpretation."

Journalism has four main objectives: to inform, to interpret, to guide, and to entertain. It performs other important function, such as the circulation of advertising and the dissemination of a vast mass of information and comment.

In conclusion, journalism is a tool of communicating news and information through newspapers, magazines, periodicals and broadcasting through radio and television.

1.3.1 History of Journalism

The History of journalism is closely linked to the development of the printing press. The credit for the invention of printing press goes to the Chinese. Initially they invented the movable types of press between 9th and 11th century. Even paper was first of all manufactured in China. The first book was also printed by a Chinese, in 868 A.D.

In the 15th century Johann Gutenberg developed a movable type in Europe especially in Germany. He also invented suitable ink for the metal type which replaced wooden blocks. He printed nearly 300 copies of the Bible. After that, many other countries established the printing press. Among them Venice became a flourishing centre of printing. In those days, the governments and the churches patronized the printing presses. In 1476, Claxton, England's first printer set up a press in westminister. He printed the books in English language whereas before him they used to be printed only in Latin. Then it spread all over the world. Even in the ancient and early medieval times bulletins, news pamphlets and other propaganda materials used to past on the walls.

In the middle of the 16th century the morning newspapers took shape in Europe. First of all the trading houses published news books and news letters. In 1560, in some towns of Germany and Switzerland serially numbered news sheets, namely Avisa from Germany and 'Relations' from Strasbourg started coming out regularly. In 1618, weekly newspapers started coming out in English, French, Dutch and German languages from Amsterdam in Holland. In 1621, a single news-sheet called a 'Courante' was published in England. By 1660, weekly publication of news-sheets had been well established in U.K. In 1665, Oxford Gazette' which later on became 'London Gazette' was published bi-weekly. But the daily newspaper, 'The daily courant' was Published in England in 1702. In America, Boston News latter' was published in 1704.

In Nepal, however the very introducing of printing press was slow. In Rana regime publishing material and independent media were considered harmful and doing so would invite imprisonment. Nevertheless, wideness in thought gradually appeared. Rana prime minister Dev Sumsher was one who prompted in 1901 A.D. the launching of Gorkhapatra, the kingdom's oldest newspaper today.

1.3.2 The Gorkhapatra Daily: An Introduction

In 1958 B.S., it was published through Pashupath press weekly under the editorial team of Pandit Naradev and Motikrishna Sharma. Later in 1960 the responsibility of managing director was transferred to Jaya Prithivi Bahadur Singh. He remained in his position till 1972. Asar 29th, 1969 became remarkable day for Gorkhapatra because it started to be published with electronic press and for the first time, the chief editor Prem Raj's picture was photographed.

Bi-weekly and daily publication of Gorkhapatra started in 2000B.S and in 2017 respectively. With daily publication, Gopal Prasad Bhattarai took the responsibility of the chief editor of the Gorkhapatra. Now, under this publication the Rising Nepal, Madhupark, Youba Munch, Sunday dispatch, English weekly, Muna, Monoram, Appsara are published.

In fact, Gorkhapatra has crossed above 90 years in the field of mass communication to inform, to guide and to entertain the people. It reports fully and explains the meaning of local, national and international events. Its editorial comment provides informed opinion on matter of vital concern to its reader. Therefore, it has left an unforgettable stamp on the minds of the Nepalese people functioning as the unifying force, co-ordinating various cultures, languages religions, customs, ethnic groups etc. In short, it takes the position of Governmental mouth piece of the newspaper.

Categorization of News in the Gorkhapatra Daily

On the basis of subject area, the News of Gorkhapatra daily are categorized as follows: Govenmental News, News of people, News of labour, News of education and academic activities, health, agricultural News, News of opinion, News of Business and economy, organizational News, News of science and technology, News of social planning and activities, sports News, News of entertainment, International News, advertisement section, Saturday supplement.

1.3.3 The Kantipur Daily: An Introduction

The mass media in Nepal have been flourished mainly since democracy was restored in 1990. As a result, on 19 February 1993 (2049 falgun 7), the Kantipur Daily was published by Goyanka publications in Shreya printers press, as a strong non-governmental newspaper under Shyam Goyanka as the managing editor, Yogesh upadhaya as editor, S.P. Singh as marketing manager and Dhan Pradhan as advisor in first ever issue of the publications.

The first office was at Thapathali in Aakash Deep Building where the press was lied. Initially there were eight pages in the paper with picture in the first and last page along with the coverage of different national and international events. To give financial strength to the publication house and management team, half of the share of Goyanka publication was given to the Gyawali and Sirohiya family. Then after, from 2049 BS chaitra 23, Hemraj Gyawali's name was kept as the publisher and the title 'managing editor' was replaced by 'editor'. From 2050 BS the name Kantipur publication was published in both the papers instead 0f the Goyanka publications. In the print line, there was Hemraj Gyawali as the publisher, managing editor was Shyam Goyanka and Yogesh Upadhaya was the editor. After sometime, the remaining 50% share of the publication was given to Gyawali and Sirohiya family.

On Bhadra 21st, 2050 B.S. Bhadra 21, in the print line of these papers the managing editor Shyam Goyanka, was replaced by Hemaraj Gyawali named as the publisher and Yogesh Upadhaya the editor. From Magh 21 of this year, Kailash Sirohiya and Binod Raj Gyawali were appointed as managing director and director respectively. Under this publication 'The Kathmandu post, Saptahik, Sorbottom Nepal weekly, Nari are published weekly. From 2050 Baisakh 12 Kantipur Daily started publishing a four page supplement Kosheli as well. For making the publication well organized branch offices were established at Biratnagar, Pokhara and Nepalganj.

Now a days, it publishes the Kantipur Daily simultaneously from three places: Kathmandu from 2054, Biratngar from (2058 B.S.) Bharatpur from (2062 B.S.). Kantipur started giving the first, second, second last and last page in colored format and minimally 12 pages from 2056 B.S. (maximally 20 pages). Children supplement an eight page tabloid is published on every Friday. Now this daily circulated the 150,000 copies daily.

In this regard, the arrival of Kantipur daily contributed to a significant change in the history of newspapers in Nepal. It provides true picture of news and analytical reviews to the Nepalese society. An authentic and detailed coverage of the national and international events including trade and commerce, sports, opinion, social, politician and economic etc are its strength. It is also admired for its firm, critical and constructive editorial opinion.

Categorization of News in the Kantipur Daily

On the basis of subject area the news of the Kantipur Daily are categorized as: Frontal News, Brief News, valley News, National News, Information News, News of opinion, News of Business and economy, International News, advertisement section, sports news, News of Arts and style, News of vision and cartoon.

Thus, the role of these print media 'Gorkhapatra and Katntipur Daily can be observed in terms of creating awareness, knowledge, attitude and behavioural change, impact on value system and ideology of society. They can instantly bring the ups and downs in governance.

1.4 Fundamentals of Language Structures:

A language has various units. A unit in a language is the stretch of the language that carries grammatical pattern. The units carry the structures of grammar in different sizes. Every language has a fixed number of units. English has five units which make a hierarchy of rank shift and rank scale.

Structure is the way in which various smaller units are combined together to form larger units. Such smaller units forming larger units are the constituents of the larger units. Each grammatical unit has its own structure (except the unit morpheme) i.e. each grammatical unit is usually formed by the combination of units below its rank.

1. Morpheme

The morpheme is the minimal unit of grammatical description in the sense that it can not be segmented any further at the grammatical level of analysis. The word unfriendly, for example, is composed of three morphemes, since we can distinguish three irreducible elements, viz. Un-, friend and -ly. These morphemes obviously belong to different categories in that 'friend' can be used independently, where as un-and -ly can not Arts and Arts (1986:17).

To Hockett (1958:123), 'Morphemes are the smallest individually meaningful elements in the utterances of a language'.

2. Word

Words are meaningful unit. They may have one or more morphemes. Richards et al (1985:311) define a word as the smallest of the linguistic units which can occur on its own in speech or writing. This definition reflects Bloomfield's classical definition of the word, i.e. the word is the minimum free form of a language. But this is not a comprehensive definition. 'The' for example, is a function word however, this does not occur on its own. Robins (1978:85) says 'the sentences is free linguistic form and the word is its minimal version. So different linguists define word differently but it is hard to find out the universally accepted definition of words.

2.1 The Classification of Word in Its Classes

The classification of words goes back to the period of Greek grammarians 100 B.C. Dionysus thrax, a Greek grammarian classified words into eight parts of speech which modern grammarians would like to call word classes. There are two types of word classes: Major word class and minor word classes.

2.1.1 Major Word Classes

The major word classes are also called open classes; their membership is unrestricted and indefinitely large since they allow the addition of new members. They are nouns, verbs, Adjectives and adverbs.

2.1.2 Minor Word Classes

The minor word classes are closed classes; their membership is restricted since they do not allow the creation of new members. The minor word classes are prepositions, conjunctions, articles, numbers, pronouns quantifiers and interjections.

According to Jindal et al (1999:64) from the point of view of their morpheme constituents, there are mainly three types of words.

- (i) Simple words: They consist of a single free morpheme followed, or not, by an inflectional suffix, e.g. plays, stronger.
- (ii) Complex words: They consist of a base and a derivational affix, e.g. enable, boyhood, determination.
- (iii) Compound words: They consist of two (or more) free stems which are independent words by themselves, e.g. over-ripe, happy-go-lucky.

3. Phrase

A phrase, one of the grammatical units, is a group of words which functions as a single word or as a unit. For Aarts and Aarts (1986: 60), "phrase can be distinguished as: noun phrase, adjective phrase, adverb phrase, verb phrase and prepositional phrase. A phrase can be identified on the basis of the word class membership of its most important constituent".

4. Clause

A clause, is a group of words that includes a subject and a verb, and forms a sentences or part of a sentence. Functionally, clauses can be divided into two groups: a main clause and a subordinate clause. From the structural point of view, clauses can be of the following types (Aarts and Aarts: 1986:8): finite clause, non-finite clause and verb less clause.

5. Sentence

A sentence is that linguistic unit which begins with a capital letter and ends with a full stop. It is a set of words expressing a statement, a question or an order, usually containing a subject and a verb. The sentence is placed at the other extreme of the rank scale and regarded as the largest unit of grammatical description.

Todd, L (1987: 66/67) has divided sentences into two clauses (i) minor and (ii) major. Major has four types declarative, imperative, interrogative and exclamatory which contain finite verbs whereas minor sentences do not contain finite verbs but they are frequently found in colloquial speech, e.g. Hello, just a minute.

1.5 Word Formation Processes

Word formation is the process of the creation of new words. Because of this process new words are added day by day in a language. The users of a language have to be conversant with the myriad ways in which words are formed. The most important method of word formation is affixation, i.e. by adding a prefix or a suffix to a base word. Apart from affixation, there are several other methods by which new words are formed. Some of these methods are: Compound formation (e.g. girl friend, pick-pocket, pot-belly), reduplication (e.g. Kit-Kat, pooh-poh), use of clippings (e.g. photo, phone, plane), use of acronyms (e.g. AIDS, UNICEF, SAARC), blend formation (e.g. Brunch, smog, telecast), echoism (e.g. clang, tick), from new inventions (e.g. laser, sputnik) or from borrowing (e.g. campus, bus ticket)

1.6 Literature Review

Code-mixing, in Nepali newspapers, is an important field of research because of the development of mass communication and others. In this present topic, to compare the Gorkhapatra Daily and the Kantipur Daily the researcher attempted to review the related literature.

Shrestha (2000) has analyzed newspaper headlines. So far as the code-mixing is concerned, Shrestha has not made any attempt to touch this area; he is limited only to the language patterns of headlines.

Subedi (2001) has carried out a descriptive and practical study to find out the English words that are used in the 'Gorakhapatra Daily' and their frequency of occurrence. He studied every issue within one week. He pointed out some assimilated and non-assimilated words. He found that seat, driver, jungle, bank were the assimilated words and plaza, trade, wicket, lamination were non-assimilated ones. He also mentioned their frequency. But his study was not related to other newspapers comparatively in terms of similarities and differences in code-mixing.

Bhattrai (2003) has conducted a research to study the spoken English at tourist sports of Kathmandu valley. He found some cases of Nepali code-mixing in English language when the guide, tourist and the hawkers spoke to each other.

Pokhrel (2003) has carried out a research entitled "English in broadcast and print media". The researcher found out that there is a remarkable distinction between the language of broad cast media and that of print media. The general difference is a matter of simplicity. Moreover, directly quoted sentences are more used in print media than in broadcast media.

Pangeni (2005) has carried out a descriptive and practical study of code-mixing in Kantipur and classic FM radio programme in Nepal. His overall study concluded that English code-mixing in Nepali language took place while speaking. Various kinds of English expressions covering language structures, function and topic areas were occurred in mixing.

Poudel (2005) has carried out a research on code-switching in T.U. premises. The researcher has found out that in code-switching words or groups of words occur in a different order from what is usually in English.

Luitel (2005) has carried out a research on a study of English code-mixing in the Nepali stories. The researcher has found out that there is a large amount of English code-mixing in the Nepali stories especially in word level with high frequency.

Apart from these, no any research has been carried out yet to find out the condition of English code-mixing in Nepali newspapers comparatively. Therefore, the present researcher aims to compare these newspapers in terms of code-mixing.

1.7 Objectives of the Study

The objectives of this study were as follows:

- a) To find out and classify the English expression mixed in the Nepali language used in the Gorkhapatra and the Kantipur Dailies.
- b) To find out the frequency of occurrence of different items of code-mixing.
- c) To compare them.
- d) To enlist the pedagogical implications.

1.8 Significance of the study

The study is expected to be significant as a reference material for linguists, the text book writers, syllabus designers, teachers, students and all those who are involved in analyzing, describing, learning and teaching the nature of mixed English words in Nepali newspaper.

Specially speaking, it has direct relevance to the learning and teaching of the current B.Ed. English course entitled 'English for mass media' and similar other courses offered at the schools/departments of journalism.

1.9 Definition of the Terms

Expression: This term is used in a general sense in lingistics, referring to a string of language elements. Here, the expression includes English languages in a mixed form i.e. code mixing in Nepali newspapers. Expressions can denote the elements of language of low to the highest rank i.e. morpheme, word, phrase, clause and sentences.

Abbreviation: This term refers to the formation of a word or phrase shorter by leaving out letters or using only the first letter of each word.

CHAPTER TWO

METHODOLOGY

This chapter describes the methodology used in this study.

2.1 Sources of Data

In this study, mainly, secondary sources were used for the collection of data; i.e. the Gorkhapatra Daily and the Kantipur Daily of one week.

2.2 Secondary Sources of Data

This study is based on the Gorkhapatra Daily and the Kantipur Daily of one week i.e. from 15th of Ashad to 21st of Ashad 2063 to collect the data.

Apart from this, the researcher studied different related books, journals, articles, reports and previous research work in order to facilitate the study. Mainly books Hudson (1980), Richard et al (1985), Trudgill (1986), Wardhaugh (1986), Yadava (2004) and previous researches Shrestha (2000), Subedi (2001), Bhattarai (2003), Pangeni (2005).

2.3 Sampling Procedure

For this study the researcher selected fourteen Nepali newspapers from the Gorkhapatra Daily and the Kantipur Daily, seven from each as the sampling population. That is from 15th of Ashad to 21st of Ashad 2063 by using the technique of purposive non-random sampling because this study is very small in size of sample in comparison to the population. Thus, he got 14 newspapers to compare and analyze the frequency of occurrence of different items of code mixing.

2.4 Research Tool

The researcher prepared observation sheets before listing down the mixed English code. These observation sheets contained the expressions such as words, phrases, clauses and sentences with their frequency of occurrence out from the total mixed words in which these mixing took place in each day newspapers (Appendix- I).

2.5 Process of Data Collection

The researcher studied different books, journals and previous researches that were related to this research. He visited the central office of Gorkhapatra Sansthan and Kantipur Publication to collect every issues of the Gorkhapatra and the Kantipur Daily of the year 2063-Ashad. Then, he gathered the selected newspapers and read them intensively from the beginning to the end. On the basis of research tool he listed down the mixed English code on these prepared sheet and compared them in terms of frequency of occurrence. He counted the number of Nepali and English words to findout the percentage from the total words. The abbreviated words were not classified in terms of parts of speech however they were counted as words.

2.6 Limitation of the Study

The study had the following limitations.

- a) The study was limited to a small portion of applied linguistics i.e. English code mixing in the Gorkhapatra and the Kantipur Daily: a comparative study.
- b) The sources of data were limited to each publication of one week.
- c) The study focused on the English code that were mixed in these newspapers.
- d) Shifted words of other languages were not counted. They were counted into Nepali words.
- e) Advertisements and notices were not taken into consideration.
- f) Captions and cartoons were not counted in this study.

CHAPTER THREE

ANALYSIS AND INTERPRETATION

In this chapter the data collected from the Gorkhapatra and the Kantipur Daily of the selected days are analyzed and interpreted to fulfill the objectives. Mainly this part focused the data from two points of view, i.e. description and comparison. So, the researcher analyzed and compared the data on the basis of the following headings:

- 1. Word-wise comparison
- 2. Linguistic unit based comparison
- 3. Frequency wise comparison
- 4. Holistic comparison

3.1 Word-wise Comparison
