ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to express my sincere and hearty gratitude to my thesis supervisor Mrs. Hima Rawal, Lecturer, Department of English Education, T.U., Kirtipur for her guidance, encouragements, and valuable suggestions, insightful comments for planning, preparing and editing of this thesis. Without her inspiration and scholarly directions, it would not be possible to bring it in this form.

I would like to extend my sincere gratitude to Dr. Chandreshwar Mishra, Reader and Head, Department of English Education, the most helpful teacher for providing me with practical suggestions, encouragement and co-operation during my study. Similarly, I would like to express my gratitude to Mrs. Madhu Neupane, for her valuable guidance and special suggestions during this study. I am indebted to Dr. Jai Raj Awasthi, Professor, Department of English Education for giving fruitful suggestions and guidance.

Similarly, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to all my teachers and other members of the Department of English Education for their encouragement and valuable suggestions.

In the same way, I am very much grateful to all the students of M. Ed. first year majoring in English, T.U., Kirtipur, who co-operated and provided me with the information to carry out this study. Likewise, I would like to thank my brother Mr. Dev Raj Khatri and my parents who created the proper environment and support. I am equally thankful to my friends Mr. Kamal, Kishor, Devendra, Chandramani, Yogendra, Hari, Mitra, Tek Raj, Govinda, Puspa, Ganesh, Padam for their kind help and valuable suggestions for this study.

Last but not the least, my thank goes to Mrs. Madhavi Khanal, librarian of the Department for her kind help.

ABSTRACT

This study entitled “Students’ Attitudes Towards Studying Literature” was an attempt to find out the attitudes of the students towards the course ‘Teaching English Literature’ ( Eng. Ed. 392) prescribed for the students of B.Ed. third year as an elective subject majoring in English Education. The researcher selected eighty students of M.Ed. first year majoring in English, Faculty of Education, T.U. Kirtipur. One set of questionnaire consisting of both closed-ended and open-ended questions was provided in order to collect their attitudes towards the course. On the basis of the collected data, the attitudes of the students were determined, analyzed and tabulated. The main findings of the study showed that the course has both strong and weak aspects. The strong aspects are greater in number than weaker ones. As a whole, the students had positive attitudes towards the course. The researcher found that the course TEL (Eng. Ed. 392) has been quite useful for teaching learning language as well as to know about the world and historical development of literature and study other subjects written in English. It is very practical, useful and interesting for the students which encourage them to study and make active participation in conversation to develop communicative competence.

The study consists of four chapters. Chapter one deals with introduction. It consists of general background of the study, review of the related literature, objectives of the study, significance of the study, and definitions of the specific terms. Similarly, chapter two introduces the methodology adopted for the study. It incorporates sources of data, population of study, sampling procedures, and tools for data collection, processes of data collection and the limitations of the study. Likewise, chapter three consists of analysis and interpretation of the data. Finally, Chapter four incorporates findings and recommendations.
