Acknowledgement

First of all, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to Professor Dr. Ram Bahadur Chhetri for his valuable suggestions, encouragement and guidance as a supervisor to my research work and dissertation. Through his intellectual guidance, this work came into its present form. I would also like to thank Mr. Madhusudan Subedi, Lecture of Central Department of Sociology/Anthropology, TU, for providing critical comments and valuable suggestions. Without his support, this study would not be what it is. My thanks goes to Dr. Elvira Graner (Resident Representative-South Asia Institute, Heidelberg University, Kathmandu office), who helped in M. A. Support Scheme for Thesis Writing and always encouraged and provided valuable suggestions for my Master dissertation. I also own thanks to Mr. Janak Rai, Teaching Fellow of Cornell-Nepal Study Program and Lecture of Tri-Chandra Multiple College, Kathmandu, who was indispensable in providing me with important literature. In the process of conducting my field survey in the Mechchhe VDC, I received precious help from Mr. Padam Bahadur Dong, Mr. Beni Shrestha, Mr. Devraj Dong, Mr. Lal Bahadur Ghising and their entire families. Similarly, I own my appreciation to the teachers of different schools of that area; namely, Balaram Rayamajhi, Surya Lama, Suraj Lama, Bholanath Dhungana, Shambhu Kandel and all the key informants who helped me collect the primary data. In the process of taking qualitative information, I received assistance from Mr. Norbu Moktan, Mr. Kanak Thokar, Mr. Bimal Dong and Mr. Tek Bahadur Nepali. I must heartfully acknowledge the families of victim who were willing to share their loved ones stories; thank you. Without their help, my research would not have been possible. I would also like to extend my appreciation to the Cornell Nepal Study Program and National Foundation For Development of Indigenous Nationalities for providing research grants that supported the research and the writing of this dissertation.

I am equally obliged to acknowledge different government authorities and library officials. I must thank the Central Library of T.U., C.N.S.P., CWIN, CERID, Karuna Foundation, UNICEF and Ministry of Education, for their help and cooperation during the collection of literature and data.

I would like to thank my father Nauman Sing Dong, mother Maili Dong, sister Ms. Chyangbarani Dong and my entire extended family, who always encouraged me to complete my higher education. My thanks also go to my sister Ms. Katherine Patrick for her valuable editorial and Ms. Bishnu Thapa, for providing me with her laptop on which I wrote this dissertation.
