I am highly indebted to my respected supervisor Mr. Ramesh Thapa, the lecturer at the Central Department of English, for his scholarly guidance, inspiration and important suggestions from the very beginning to the completion of this thesis. This work of research would never have taken the present shape without his constant guidance and supervision.

I am very much grateful to Prof. Dr. Amma Raj Joshi, Head of the Central Department of English, for the approval of this research work in its present shape. I would also like to express my sincere thanks to my respected teachers Dr. Shiva Rijal, Mr. Ghanashyam Bhandari, Mr. Rajkumar Baral, and other teachers who inspired me to materialize my dream as a Master of Arts.

I am very grateful to my late parents, Bhuwani Prasad Koirala and Rukmina Koirala, due to whom I am in existence and my reverent brother Bed Prasad Koirala and sister-in-law Yasoda Koirala and then the youngest sister Matrika Koirala who helped and inspired me profoundly for my further study. Likewise, I can't help remembering Mama Teju Ojha, without whom my dream to be M. A. in English could have never been possible. Especially, I am too much indebted to my sister Radhika and brother in law Hari Ghimire who well advised me for my study. Thanks to my cousins Surya Adhikari, Yoga Raj Sapkota, Meghnath Sapkota for their laborious help.

My special thanks go to Mr. Buddhi Sagar Neupane, Mr. Krishna Khatiwada, Mr. Tibendra Adhikari who unhesitatingly inspired me directly and indirectly to bring this thesis in this form.

Abstract

The thesis entitled "Poetics and Politics in Naming Ceremony (Nwaran) in Hindu Culture ", deals with the ideology of power that is discursively hidden under the name of pious ritual "Naming Ceremony" which is done in Hindu society differently adding the middle names with the virtue of different castes according to the written importance, value and respect in Hindu creed. No history is true one that is why what is written in Vedas, Puranas etc. about the glory of naming ceremony is totally partial. It is merely the subjective and fictional one.
